Kristine M Gebbie Dr P H R N Columbia University School of Nursing Effective Oral Health Promotion Andrew J. Sprod, Robert Anderson, Elizabeth T. Treasure, 1996 Co-designing and Evaluating Oral Health Promotion Interventions for Vulnerable Groups Vanessa Muirhead, Maha El Tantawi, Andrea Rodriguez, 2025-04-01 A new approach to research is emerging that involves the public service users and health researchers in generating knowledge developing interventions and evaluating health promotion programs Co design describes active collaboration with stakeholders to create solutions to recognized problems Co design is underpinned by a Participatory Action Research PAR research paradigm that emphasizes power sharing which is particularly relevant to research on traditionally socially excluded groups This series adopts an empowerment definition of vulnerability to showcase co design in practice how researchers have developed and evaluated oral health interventions that have worked with instead of on people who are perceived as vulnerable Using an Inclusion Oral Health framework we can highlight how social exclusion is produced and experienced and its impact on oral health outcomes and social justice Asian Perspectives and Evidence on Health Promotion and Education Takashi Muto, Eun Woo Nam, Toshitaka Nakahara, 2010-12-03 Globalization and information technology have caused many health problems mental health issues like depression and lifestyle related disease like diabetes and obesity To cope with these health issues health promotion and education are desperately needed Convincing policy decision makers to invest in health promotion and education programs it is needed to show its effectiveness Health promotion and education professionals are expected to construct evidence of health promotion and education Most of such evidence has been produced in the US and European countries Because socio economic conditions differ between the Asia and Western countries we cannot depend on such evidence to implement adequate health promotion and education in our region We must produce and accumulate our own evidence based on Asian perspectives Oral Health Promotion Stella Kwan, Poul Erik Petersen, 2003 The Scientific Basis of Oral Health Education Ronnie Levine, Catherine Stillman-Lowe, 2018-11-23 The first edition of this classic text appeared in 1976 with the aim of refining and standardising the advice given to the public and to ensure that such advice was scientifically sound and evidence based It was written not only for members of the dental professions and those involved in general healthcare including medical practitioners school nurses health visitors midwives dieticians pharmacists and public health practitioners but also those who influence health in the wider community such as teachers child carers and peer educators While originally written for a UK readership it became clear that it was used in other countries and that a new international edition was needed To ensure that this new edition would reflect a consensus of international expert opinion and be relevant to a much broader readership a panel of eminent experts was enlisted from as far afield as Japan Singapore Denmark Switzerland and the USA The text is consistent with current evidence and guidance from the WHO and includes comparative guidance from other countries and systematic reviews of research evidence from the Cochrane Collaboration database It provides information and advice on the main aspects of oral health including the cause and prevention of dental caries periodontal disease dental erosion oral cancer and dental problems in children under five and older people Throughout the book key points are given at the beginning of each chapter with an indication of the strength of supporting scientific evidence using a simple scheme
