physicians and her commitment to public health and medical relief took her into the international arena where she was chair of the American Women's Hospitals after World War I and the first president of the Medical Women's International Association. Most disease suffering and death she believed were the result of wars and social and economic inequities and she was determined to combat those conditions through organized action. Lovejoy's early life and career in the Pacific Northwest gave her key experiences and strategies to use for what she termed constructive resistance: the ability to take effective action against unjust power. She took a political and pragmatic approach to what she called woman's big job: achieving a full female citizenship and emphasizing the importance of votes for women. In this engaging biography, Kimberly Jensen tells the story of this important western woman, exploring her approach to politics, health, and society and her civic, economic, and medical activism. Return to the River Richard N. Williams, 2005-11-21. Return to the River will describe a new ecosystem based approach to the restoration of salmon and steelhead populations in the Columbia River, once one of the most productive river basins for anadromous salmonids on the west coast of North America. The approach of this work has broad applicability to all recovery efforts throughout the northern hemisphere and general applicability to fisheries and aquatic restoration efforts throughout the world. The Pacific Northwest is now embroiled in a major public policy debate over the management and restoration of Pacific salmon. The outcome of the debate has the potential to affect major segments of the region's economy: river transportation, hydroelectric production, irrigated agriculture, urban growth, commercial and sport fisheries, etc. This debate, centered as it is on the salmon in all the rivers, has created a huge demand for information. The book will be a powerful addition to that debate. A 15-year collaboration by a diverse group of scientists working on the management and recovery of salmon, steelhead, trout, and wildlife populations in the Pacific Northwest. Includes over 200 figures with four color throughout the book. Discusses complex issues such as habitat degradation, juvenile survival through the hydrosystem, the role of artificial production, and harvest reform.

The First to Cry Down Injustice Ellen Eisenberg, 2008-01-01. Although American Jews had already embraced the principle of fighting prejudice in all forms, western Jews often did not apply it to specific local issues involving Japanese Americans during World War II. In The First to Cry Down Injustice, Eisenberg analyzes the range of Jewish responses, including silence, opposition, and support for the policy to the mass removal of Japanese Americans as the product of a distinctive western ethnic landscape.
