Tales of Ghosts Ronald W. Hawker, 2007-10-01 The years between 1922 and 1961 often referred to as the Dark Ages of Northwest Coast art have largely been ignored by art historians and dismissed as a period of artistic decline Tales of Ghosts compellingly reclaims this era arguing that it was instead a critical period during which the art played an important role in public discourses on the status of First Nations people in Canadian society Hawker s insightful examination focuses on the complex functions that Northwest Coast objects such as the ubiquitous totem pole played during the period He demonstrates how these objects asserted the integrity and meaningfulness of First Nations identities while simultaneously resisting the intent and effects of assimilation enforced by the Canadian government s denial of land claims its ban of the potlatch and its support of assimilationist education Those with an interest in First Nations and Canadian history and art history anthropology museology and post colonial studies will be delighted by the publication of this major contribution to their fields

The Most Striking of Objects Andrew Patrick, 2002

Plundered Skulls and Stolen Spirits Chip Colwell, 2017-03-08 A leading anthropologist explores the fraught project of repatriating Native American sacred objects in this moving and thoughtful work Publishers Weekly Who own the objects that connect us to history And who has the right to decide particularly when the objects are sacred or in the case of skeletal remains human As senior curator of anthropology at the Denver Museum of Nature Science Chip Colwell has navigated questions like these firsthand In Plundered Skulls and Stolen Spirits he examines how to weigh the religious freedom of Native Americans against the academic freedom of scientists and whether the emptying of museum shelves elevates human rights or destroys a common heritage Today hundreds of tribes use the Native American Graves Protection and Repatriation Act to recover their looted heritage from museums across the country Colwell shares a personal account of this process following the trail of four objects as they were created collected and ultimately returned to their sources a sculpture that is a living god the scalp of a massacre victim a ceremonial blanket and a skeleton from a tribe considered by some to be extinct These stories reveal a dramatic process that involves not merely obeying the law but negotiating the blurry lines between identity and morality spirituality and politics Repatriation Colwell argues is a difficult but vitally important way for museums and tribes to heal the wounds of the past while creating a respectful approach to caring for these rich artifacts of history
