Negotiating Citizenship Migrant Women In Canada And The Global System:

Negotiating Citizenship A. Bakan, D. Stasiulis, 2003-12-19 Negotiating Citizenship explores the growing inequalities associated with nation based citizenship from the perspective of migrant women workers who have made their way from impoverished Third World countries to work in Canada in the caregiving industries of domestic service and nursing. The study demonstrates the impact of the global political economy, public and private gatekeeping mechanisms and racialized and gendered stereotypes on the contested relationship between citizen employers and non citizen female migrant workers in Canada. Towards a Global History of Domestic and Caregiving Workers, 2015-05-26 Domestic and caregiving work has been at the core of human existence throughout history. Poorly paid or even unpaid, this work has been assigned to women in most societies and occasionally to men, often as enslaved indentured workers. While some use domestic service as training for their own future independent households, others are confined to it for life and try to avoid damage to their identities. Part One: Employment conditions are even worse in colonizer/colonized dichotomies in which the subalternized have to run the households of administrators who believe they are running an empire. Part Two: Societies and states set the discriminatory rules; those employed develop strategies of resistance or self protection. Part Three: A team of international scholars addresses these issues globally with a deep historical background. Contributors are Ally Shireen, Eileen Boris, Dana Cooper, Jennifer Fish, David R. Goodman, Mary Gene De Guzman, Jaira Harrington, Victoria Haskins, Dirk Hoerder, Elizabeth Hordge, Freeman Majda, Hrenjak, Elizabeth Hutchison, Dimitris Kalantzopoulos, Bela Kashyap, Marta Kindler, Anna Kordasiewicz, Ms. Lokesh, Sabrina Marchetti, Robyn Pariser, Jessica Richter, Magaly Rodriguez, Garcia, Raffaella Sarti, Adla Souralov, Yukari Takai, and Andrew Urban.

Constructing and Imagining Labour Migration Ms. Sandra Mantu, Professor Elspeth Guild, 2013-03-28 Labour migration has been on the agenda of many countries around the globe at the same time as governments of both sending and receiving countries have been trying to develop regulatory mechanisms. This book opens the debate on the global politics of labour migration by proposing a reassessment of the interaction between states regarding labour migration. Presenting case specific scholarship from leading experts from five different continents, each contribution engages with the changing landscape of migration control and teases out emerging control patterns, dynamics and correlations that can be made between them and existing control paradigms. The multidisciplinary and global focus in Constructing and Imagining Labour Migration sheds much needed light on the mechanisms deployed by states in their attempts to control labour migration and on the manner in which these mechanisms impact upon migrants themselves, leaving some caught up in the politics of labour market control.

Indigenous Women, Work, and History Mary Jane Logan McCallum, 2014-05-02 When dealing with Indigenous women s history we are conditioned to think about women as private sphere figures circumscribed by the home the reserve and the community Moreover in many ways Indigenous men and women have been cast in static pre modern and one dimensional identities and their twentieth century experiences reduced to a singular story of decline and loss In Indigenous Women Work and History historian Mary Jane Logan McCallum rejects both of these long standing conventions by presenting case studies of Indigenous domestic servants hairdressers community health representatives and nurses working in modern Native ways between 1940 and 1980 Based on a range of sources including the records of the Departments of Indian Affairs and National Health and Welfare interviews and print and audio visual media McCallum shows how state run education and placement programs were part of Canada s larger vision of assimilation and extinguishment of treaty obligations Conversely she also shows how Indigenous women link these same programs to their social and cultural responsibilities of community building and state resistance By placing the history of these modern workers within a broader historical context of Aboriginal education and health federal labour programs post war Aboriginal economic and political developments and Aboriginal professional organizations McCallum challenges us to think about Indigenous women s history in entirely new ways

The Integration and Protection of Immigrants Paul Van Aerschot, Patricia Daenzer, 2016-02-24 In Scandinavian countries immigration is a sensitive issue and legislators approach to the questions it has raised has varied over the years Whatever immigrant and integration policies are adopted in a democratic society it is clear that the legislation and the authorities have to ensure that the individual rights of the immigrants residing in its territory are respected With Canada as a point of reference this book draws attention to weaknesses in the regulation and implementation of integration provisions threatening the immigrants individual rights in the EU member states of Denmark Finland and Sweden The study challenges readers to critically review the meaning of rights and the notion of global caring It takes a critical look at how vulnerable immigrants fare in a largely immigrant nation with a welfare capitalism legacy when compared to three European nations which claim to embrace institutional welfare models This book will be of great interest to scholars and decision makers interested in Scandinavian or Canadian immigration and integration policies

Everyday Transgressions Adelle Blackett, 2019-04-15

The book s breadth and grounding in labor law make it most accessible and useful to a professional audience but even nonspecialists and lay readers will appreciate Blackett's insights about law and domestic work and provocative issues such as social stratification and immigration. Choice Adelle Blackett tells the story behind the International Labour Organization's ILO Decent Work for Domestic Workers Convention No 189 and its accompanying Recommendation No 201 which in 2011 created the first comprehensive international standards to extend fundamental protections and rights to the millions of domestic workers laboring in other peoples homes throughout the world. As the principal legal architect Blackett is able to take us behind the scenes to show us how Convention No 189 transgresses the everyday law of the household workplace to embrace domestic workers human rights claim to be both workers like any other and workers like no other. In doing so she discusses the importance of understanding historical forms of invisibility, recognizes the influence of the domestic workers themselves and weaves in poignant experiences infusing the discussion of laws and standards with intimate examples and sophisticated analyses. Looking to the future she ponders how international institutions such as the ILO will address labor market informality alongside national and regional law reform. Regardless of what comes next Everyday Transgressions establishes that domestic workers victory is a victory for the ILO and for all those who struggle for an inclusive transnational vision of labor law rooted in social justice.

Class, Contention, and a World in Motion Winnie Lem, Pauline Gardiner Barber, 2010. The authors challenge currently dominant approaches to migration and offer important ways to move between the individual experience and the structure of the world system. Alan Smart, University of Calgary.

Migrants and Health Christiane Falge, Carlo Ruzza, 2016-04-22. Integrating newcomers and minorities into the social fabric of receiving countries has become one of the crucial challenges of contemporary Western societies. This volume seeks to understand patterns of changing institutional practices and public policies where the challenges of including cultural diversity into the social fabric are most pronounced, namely the health care system. In recent years pro migrant organizations and anti racist activists have repeatedly voiced and politicized demands to improve migrants access to the health care system giving rise to a lively debate about migrants access to health care and responsiveness of institutions to their needs. In a nutshell the book achieves the following: Provides a conceptual framework to link patterns of political advocacy mobilization and processes of migrants socio political inclusion. Integrates the multi disciplinary literature on political mobilization and accommodating cultural diversity in an innovative fashion. Presents a comparative study on accommodating diversity in the health care system from a comparative transatlantic perspective. Generates insight into best practices in the health care system that will be of interest to scholars as well as practitioners in the field. The analysis of health care provision offers an opportunity to test new public policy strategies and the policy consequences of the now widespread aspiration to include citizens more fully in designing and implementing them.

Beyond Liberal Democracy Daniel A. Bell, 2009-01-10. Is liberal democracy appropriate for East Asia? In this provocative book Daniel Bell argues for morally legitimate alternatives to Western style liberal democracy in the region. Beyond Liberal Democracy which continues the author's influential earlier work is divided into three parts that correspond to the three main hallmarks of liberal democracy human rights democracy and capitalism These features have been modified substantially during their transmission to East Asian societies that have been shaped by nonliberal practices and values Bell points to the dangers of implementing Western style models and proposes alternative justifications and practices that may be more appropriate for East Asian societies If human rights democracy and capitalism are to take root and produce beneficial outcomes in East Asia Bell argues they must be adjusted to contemporary East Asian political and economic realities and to the values of nonliberal East Asian political traditions such as Confucianism and Legalism Local knowledge is therefore essential for realistic and morally informed contributions to debates on political reform in the region as well as for mutual learning and enrichment of political theories Beyond Liberal Democracy is indispensable reading for students and scholars of political theory Asian studies and human rights as well as anyone concerned about China's political and economic future and how Western governments and organizations should engage with China

Legislated Inequality Patti Tamara Lenard, Christine Straehle, 2012-09-01 Historically Canada has adopted immigration policies focused on admitting migrants who were expected to become citizens A dramatic shift has occurred in recent years as the number of temporary labourers admitted to Canada has increased substantially Legislated Inequality critically evaluates this radical development in Canadian immigration arguing that it threatens to undermine Canada's success as an immigrant nation Assessing each of the four major temporary labour migration programs in Canada contributors from a range of disciplines including comparative political science philosophy and sociology show how temporary migrants are posed to occupy a permanent yet marginal status in society and argue that Canada's temporary labour policy must undergo fundamental changes in order to support Canada's long held immigration goals The difficult working conditions faced by migrant workers as well as the economic and social dangers of relying on temporary migration to relieve labour shortages are described in detail Legislated Inequality provides an essential critical analysis of the failings of temporary labour migration programs in Canada and proposes tangible ways to improve the lives of labourers Contributors include Abigail B Bakan Queen's University Tom Carter University of Manitoba Sarah D Aoust University of Ottawa Christina Gabriel Carleton University Jill Hanley McGill University Jenna Hennebry Wilfrid Laurier University Christine Hughes Carleton University Karen D Hughes University of Alberta Jahhon Koo McGill University Patti Tamara Lenard University of Ottawa Laura
