Wharton,2012-12-06 General Editor Peter Calow Department of Zoology University of Sheffield England The main aim of this series will be to illustrate and to explain the way organisms make a living in nature At the heart of this their functional biology is the way organisms acquire and then make use of resources in metabolism movement growth reproduction and so on These processes will form the fundamental framework of all the books in the series Each book will concentrate on a particular taxon species family class or even phylum and will bring together information on the form physiology ecology and evolutionary biology of the group The aim will be not only to describe how organisms work but also to consider why they have come to work in that way By concentrating on taxa which are well known it is hoped that the series will not only illustrate the success of selection but also show the constraints imposed upon it by the physiological morpho logical and developmentallimhations of the groups Another important feature of the series will be its organismic orientation Each book will emphasise the importance of functional integration in the day to day lives and the evolution of organisms This is crucial since though it may be true that organisms can be considered as collections of gene determined traits they neverthe less interact with their environment as integrated wholes and it is in this context that individual traits have been subjected to natural selection and have evolved Veterinary Parasitology Reference Manual William J. Primates Kurt Benirschke, 2012-12-06 This conference represents the first time in my life when I felt it was a misfortune rather than a major cause of my happiness that I do conservation work in New Guinea Yes it is true that New Guinea is a fascinating microcosm it has fascinating birds and people and it has large expanses of undisturbed rainforest In the course of my work there helping the Indonesian government and World Wildlife Fund set up a comprehensive national park system I have been able to study animals in areas without any human population But New Guinea has one serious drawback it has no primates except for humans Thus I come to this conference on primate conservation as an underprivileged and emotionally deprived observer rather than as an involved participant Nevertheless it is easy for anyone to become interested in primate conservation The public cares about primates More specifically to state things more realistically many people care some of the time about some primates Primates are rivaled only by birds pandas and the big cats in their public appeal For some other groups of animals the best we can say is that few people care about them infrequently For most groups of animals no one cares about them ever

Structure and Function of the Aspartic Proteinases Ben M. Dunn, 2012-12-06 In September 1990 a group of 160 scientists from 19 countries and 21 of the United States met at the Red Lion Inn in Rohnert Park Sonoma County California The purpose of this meeting was to share new information from recent research on the Aspartic Proteinases This book is a compilation of the information transferred in that forum The Aspartic Proteinases include all those enzymes from the fourth class of proteolytic enzymes the first three being the Serine Cysteine and Metalloproteinases Of course all the scientists in attendance at the Sonoma Aspartic Proteinase Conference would agree that our current level of understanding of the structure and function of the Aspartic Proteinase class of enzymes is clearly first class The reasons for this require a bit of historical perspective The group of scientists who are engaged in study of this family of enzymes first met as a separate entity in 1976 in Norman Oklahoma at a meeting organized by Jordan Tang of the Oklahoma Medical Research Foundation This was an exciting time as the first crystal structures of some of these enzymes were described by Blundell James and Davies During that conference the relationship between the two halves of the mammalian and fungal enzymes was recognized and this has provided a structural foundation for analysis of the retroviral enzymes which came later A book was published by Plenum Press documenting this conference and the current book is an update to that important work Veterinary Helminthology Mr. Rohit Manglik,2024-03-02 EduGorilla Publication is a trusted name in the education sector committed to empowering learners with high quality study materials and resources Specializing in competitive exams and academic support EduGorilla provides comprehensive and well structured content tailored to meet the needs of students across various streams and levels Molecular Detection of
