

Novell's NetWare/S-Net Star Topology (Media: Twisted-Pair)

Novell's NetWare/S-Net system consists of (1) a special 68000 server with (2) a hard disk subsystem and (3) a network interface card for each workstation. The system uses (4) small-diameter twisted-pair wiring. We tested the system running under (5) Advanced NetWare 68. A separate dumb terminal is required to monitor the server and attaches to it with an RS-232C cable. Each station has a direct unshared communications link to the server that is polled regularly. You can connect up to 14 more stations to the server through an ARCnet system.
