Whitehead and Philosophy of Education Malcolm D. Evans, 1998 That process philosophy can be the foundation of the theory and practice of educating human beings is the main argument of this book The process philosophy of Alfred North Whitehead 1861 1947 is the particular thinking on which this book is based Readers are shown that Whitehead's process philosophy provides a frame a conceptual matrix that addresses their concerns about education and offers direction for their educative acts Whitehead theorized that all living entities are connected in some way Relatedness connectedness and holism are recurring themes in this exploration of Whitehead's implied philosophy of education Whitehead never wrote a philosophy of education but his writings over a period of nearly thirty years reveal a persistent interest and concern with education His work ranging from Introduction to Mathematics 1911 to Adventures of Ideas 1938 is drawn on here to construct not Whitehead's philosophy of education but a Whiteheadian philosophy of education Whitehead and Philosophy of Education brings to scholars and students of education an understanding of Whitehead as an important figure in philosophy particularly philosophy of education an acquaintance with process philosophy a brief treatment of Whitehead's life and an account of events and experiences that influenced his philosophizing and an exploration of the educationally salient concepts found in Whitehead's formal and informal philosophy with special attention to Whitehead's ideas about creativity process rhythm wisdom and knowledge Whitehead writes of phases of the rhythm of education romance precision and generalization The book is organized with attention to these three phases Part One Romance introduces readers to Whitehead the person and the change of context for educating from a mechanistic world view to an organismic one Part Two Precision examines Whitehead's writings as they relate to process philosophy and to educating Part Three Generalization is an application of the explorations of Parts One and Two yielding a construction of a Whiteheadian philosophy of education and suggestions for educational practice

A New History of Educational Philosophy James Kaminsky,1993-02-28

Kaminsky provides a new intellectual history of educational philosophy in the context of a comparative examination of educational philosophy in the United States Britain and Australasia Throughout his work he challenges those involved with educational philosophy to take a different view of the discipline and its intellectual mission Kaminsky argues that the intellectual mission of education is different from that of philosophy He believes that the legitimate audience of educational philosophy is made up of professional educators The new history of educational philosophy suggests a profound alignment with social science the discipline being part of an attempt to define and realize a social politic for the Common School The conduct and invention of philosophy of education in Britain is drawn from an attempt to restore the classical reassurances of the English concept of a liberal education to the conduct of teacher education in particular and the conduct of English versions of education in general In Australasia Kaminsky argues the discipline was initially dependent upon the work of R S Peters and the establishment of the university study of education in Britain Later developments are attributed to a defensive two class politics that came out of convictry and began to find expression in Old and New Left politics in the late 1960s and beyond In offering a new interpretation of educational philosophy which traces its origins to both social science and philosophy Kaminsky has provided a work of value to all involved with educational philosophy
