Reconstructing Literature:

The Literature of Reconstruction Wolfgang Funk, 2017-03-23 Winner of the 2016 ESSE Junior Scholar Book Award in Literatures in the English Language The Literature of Reconstruction argues for the term and concept of postmillennial reconstruction to fill the gap left by the decline of postmodernism and deconstruction as useful cultural and literary categories Wolfgang Funk shows how this notion emerges from the theoretical and philosophical development that led to the demise of postmodernism by relating it to the idea of authenticity immediate experience that eludes direct representation In addition he provides a clear formal framework with which to identify and classify the features of reconstructive literature by updating the narratological category of metafiction originally established in the 1980s Based on Werner Wolf's observation of a metareferential turn in contemporary arts and media he illustrates how the specific use of metareference results in a renegotiation of the specific patterns of literary communication and claims that this renegotiation can be profitably described with the concept of reconstruction To substantiate this claim in the second half of the book Funk discusses narrative texts that illustrate this transition from postmodern deconstruction to postmillennial reconstruction The analyses take in distinguished and prize winning writers such as Dave Eggers Julian Barnes Jennifer Egan and Jasper Fforde The broad scope of authors featuring writers from the US as well as the UK underlines the fact that the reconstructive tendencies and strategies Funk diagnoses are of universal significance for the intellectual and cultural self image of the global North

Reconstructing Criticism Philip Smallwood, 2003 This study aims to bring the modern theory of literary criticism and Pope's Essay on Criticism of 1711 into a more productive and interesting association than critical historical structures have generally allowed Smallwood marks out in current terms and in depth the specialized theoretical and aesthetic problem of defining criticism He recognizes that criticism no more than literature or art cannot be finally codified or defined but insists on the need for clarity in the exposition of criticism's purposes and a fuller consciousness of a common community of practice available to audiences outside the academic fold Affirming the unfailing currency and utility of the term criticism as new languages have taken over the critical domain or have sought to replace or abolish literature Smallwood distinguishes between the normative definitions that are everywhere apparent in modern theory of criticism and the advantages to conceptual comprehension achieved by Pope's poetic idea of criticism in the Essay Reconstructing the Canon Arnold Barrett McMillin, 2000 First Published in 2004 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informal company

Reconstructing Jerusalem Kenneth A. Ristau, 2016-06-01 Jerusalem one of the most contested sites in the world Reconstructing Jerusalem takes readers back to a pivotal moment in its history when it lay ruined and abandoned and the glory of its ancient kings David and Solomon had faded Why did this city not share the same fate as so many other conquered cities destroyed and forever abandoned never to be rebuilt Why did Jerusalem disgraced and humiliated not suffer the fate of Babylon Nineveh or Persepolis Reconstructing Jerusalem explores the interrelationship of the physical and intellectual processes leading to Jerusalem's restoration after its destruction in 587 B C E stressing its symbolic importance and the power of the prophetic perspective in the preservation of the Judean nation and the critical transition from Yahwism to Judaism Through texts and artifacts including a unique comprehensive investigation of the archaeological evidence a startling story emerges the visions of a small group of prophets not only inspired the rebuilding of a desolate city but also of a dispersed people Archaeological historical and literary analysis converge to reveal the powerful elements of the story a story of dispersion and destruction but also of re creation and revitalization a story about how compelling visions can change the fate of a people and the course of human history a story of a community reborn to a barren city

Vescio, 2014-08-06 Pointing the way toward a revitalized future for the study of literature Reconstruction in Literary Studies draws on philosophical pragmatism to justify the academic study of literature In turn Vescio connects the changing field to its social function as an institution

Reconstructing the Civic Amal Jamal, 2020-08-01 Reconstructing the Civic examines the civic activism of the homeland Palestinian minority in Israel Employing a multi methodological and empirically rich approach Amal Jamal blends historical description with interviews of Palestinian elites drawn from a diverse range of civil society groups such as NGOs youth movements and religious organizations He also critiques the failure of Western liberal scholarship to account for the experience of minority civil society organizations in illiberal social and political contexts largely because this literature assumes there is an inherent relationship between civil society and democracy Jamal places an important spotlight on the complex interplay between liberal and illiberal trends in the emergence organization and transformation of Palestinian civil society in Israel as well as the need to introduce an alternative ethical model that aims to reconstruct ethnic states in universal civic terms

Black Hawk and many others Teaching Literature T. Agathocleous, A. Dean, 2002-12-16 In Teaching Literature scholars explain how they think about their everyday experience in the classroom using the tools of their ongoing scholarly projects and engaging with current debates in literary studies Until recently teaching has played second fiddle to literary research as a mode of knowledge in academia leaving new teachers with nowhere to turn for advice about teaching and no forum for discussion of the difficulties and opportunities they face in the classroom Reconstructing Literature Laurence Lerner, 1983-01-01 Writing Reconstruction Sharon D. Kennedy-Nolle, 2015-05-04 After the Civil War the South was divided into five military districts occupied by Union forces Out of these regions a remarkable group of writers emerged Experiencing the long lasting ramifications of Reconstruction firsthand many of these writers sought to translate the era's promise into practice In fiction newspaper journalism and other forms of literature authors including George Washington Cable Albion Tourgée Constance Fenimore Woolson and Octave Thanet imagined a new South in which freedpeople could prosper as citizens with agency Radically reenvisioning the role of women in the home workforce and marketplace these writers also made gender a vital concern of their work Still working from the South the authors were often subject to the whims of a northern literary market Their visions of citizenship depended on their readership's deference to conventional claims of duty labor reputation and property ownership The circumstances surrounding the production and circulation of their writing blunted the full impact of the period's literary imagination and fostered a drift into the stereotypical depictions and other strictures that marked the rise of Jim Crow Sharon D Kennedy Nolle blends literary history with archival research to assess the significance of Reconstruction literature as a genre Founded on witness and dream the pathbreaking work of its writers made an enduring if at times contradictory contribution to American literature and history International Companion Encyclopedia of Children's Literature Peter Hunt, 2004-08-02 Children's publishing is a huge international industry and there is ever growing interest from researchers and students in the genre as cultural object of study and tool for education and socialization Reconstructing Literature Lawrence S. Reconstruction Effects in Relative Clauses Manfred Krifka, Mathias Schenner, 2018-11-19 Reconstruction effects in relative clauses are a class of phenomena where the external head of the relative clause seems to behave as if it occupied a position within the relative clause as far as some commonly accepted principle of grammar is concerned An often cited type of example is The relative of his which every man admires most is his mother where the pronoun his in the relative head appears to be bound by the quantified noun phrase every man in the relative clause although the latter does not c command the former which is commonly required for binding Several solutions have been developed in various theoretical frameworks One interesting aspect about reconstruction effects in relative clauses is that they can be used as a benchmark for competing theories of grammar Which architecture of the syntax semantics interface can provide the most satisfying explanation for these phenomena This volume brings together researchers working in different frameworks but looking at the same set of empirical facts enabling the reader to develop their own perspective on the perfect tradeoff between syntax and semantics in a theory of grammar Reimagining the Republic Sandra M.
