Marketing and Social Construction Chris Hackley, 2003-08-29 Marketing is at the centre of the business education boom a million or more people worldwide are studying the subject at any one time Yet despite widespread discontent with the intellectual standards in marketing very little has changed over the past thirty years In this ground breaking new work Chris Hackley presents a social constructionist critique of popular approaches to teaching theorising and writing about marketing

Drawing on a wide range of up to date European and North American studies Dr Hackley presents his argument on two levels First he argues that mainstream marketing s ideologically driven curriculum and research programmes dominated by North American tradition reproduce business school myths about the nature of practically relevant theory and the role of professional education in management fields Second he suggests a broadened theoretical scope and renewed critical agenda for research theory and teaching in marketing Intellectually rigorous yet comprehensible this work will be of vital importance to all those interested in the future of teaching and research in business and management Social Thinking and History
