Mike Ferner, 2006-09-30 Mike Ferner a peace activist and journalist from Ohio traveled to Baghdad twice once just before the U.S. invasion in March 2003 and once again a year later In this book he profiles Cliff Kindy of the Christian Peacemaker Teams Kathy Kelly of Voices in the Wilderness and other peace activists soldiers journalists and ordinary Iraqis he met during his two extended visits to what became known as the Red Zone the area outside the protected Green Zone enclave He provides a rare inside look into the daily life of Iraqis before and after the war as well as a collective profile of segments of the contemporary American peace movement that have thus far been hidden from public view These stories have been gathered on the dusty streets of Baghdad and from tiny farming villages in the Sunni Triangle They were not collected from the lobby of a five star hotel nor from behind the tinted windows of an armored SUV We meet activists who are unarmed trained civilians who put their bodies in between rival factions to promote peace sitting in front of tanks and bulldozers and fasting in the desert on the Iraq Kuwait border shortly before 130 000 U.S. troops invaded in 2003 We also are given an unvarnished view of everyday people in Iraq cab drivers an unemployed engineer a newspaper editor farmers in a rural village all living their lives as normally as possible in the cauldron their country has become The humanity of the people in these stories will resonate with people of all political persuasions because they go beyond the portrayal of Iraqis we're used to seeing in the news as casualties victims grieving parents and shell shocked children Instead when Ferner gave presentations upon his return from Iraq the comment he most often heard was These people are just like us They're just like people we know

The Red Hotel Alan Philips, 2023-07-04 The untold history of Moscow's Metropol hotel a fervent spot of intrigue secrets and the center of Stalin's nefarious propaganda during WWII A Washington Post Best Book of the Year In 1941 when German armies were marching towards Moscow Lenin's body was moved from his tomb on Red Square and taken to Siberia By 1945 a victorious Stalin had turned a poor country into a victorious superpower Over the course of those four years Stalin at Churchill's insistence accepted an Anglo American press corps in Moscow to cover the Eastern Front To turn these reporters into Kremlin mouthpieces Stalin imposed the most draconian controls unbending censorship no visits to the battlefield and a ban on contact with ordinary citizens The Red Hotel explores this gilded cage of the Metropol Hotel They enjoyed lavish supplies of caviar and had their choice of young women to employ as translators and share their beds On the surface this regime served Stalin well his plans to control Eastern Europe as a Sovietised outer empire were never reported and the most outrageous Soviet lies went unchallenged But beneath the surface the Metropol was roiling with intrigue While some of the translators turned journalists into robotic conveyors of Kremlin propaganda others were secret dissidents who whispered to reporters the reality of Soviet life and were punished with sentences in the Gulag Using British archives and Soviet sources the unique role of the women of the Metropol both as consummate propagandists and secret dissenters is told for the first time At the end of the war when Lenin returned to Red Square the reporters went home but the memory of Stalin's ruthless control of the wartime narrative lived on in the Kremlin From the weaponization of disinformation to the falsification of history from the moving of borders to the neutralization of independent states the story of the Metropol mirrors the struggles of our own modern era Knights of the Red Cross Brian Massatt,2000-08 book description George Adams nervously responds to his first basement fire The heat is more intense than he'd expected George abandons Lt Donovan when his cross threaded air hose comes loose Donovan fights the fire alone and George hates himself for making another mistake He fears he might not have what it takes to be a firefighter Don French is a 48 year old volunteer firefighter that is burning out He would love to be a firefighter full time but can't afford to leave his job with the phone company He has pursued the American Dream and now feels trapped by it His nightmares are interrupted by calls He responds to car accidents and a SIDS baby These calls add even more stress to his life Lt Donovan is the full timer that tries to keep them all going A fire grows throughout the novel The fire wants to be worshipped It chases a man and his baby through their home George must attack this fire and save the family trapped inside
