Visions of Dystopia in China's New Historical Novels Jeffrey C. Kinkley, 2014-11-18 The depiction of personal and collective suffering in modern Chinese novels differs significantly from standard Communist accounts and many Eastern and Western historical narratives Writers such as Yu Hua Su Tong Wang Anyi Mo Yan Han Shaogong Ge Fei Li Rui and Zhang Wei skew and scramble common conceptions of China's modern development deploying avant garde narrative techniques from Latin American and Euro American modernism to project a surprisingly un-Chinese dystopian vision and critical view of human culture and ethics The epic narratives of modern Chinese fiction make rich use of magical realism surrealism and unusual treatments of historical time Also featuring graphic depictions of sex and violence as well as dark raunchy comedy these novels reflect China's recent history re-presenting the overthrow of the monarchy in the early twentieth century and the resulting chaos of revolution and war the recurring miseries perpetrated by class warfare during the dictatorship of Mao Zedong and the social dislocations caused by China's industrialization and rise as a global power This book casts China's highbrow historical novels from the late 1980s to the first decade of the twenty first century as a distinctively Chinese contribution to the form of the global dystopian novel and consequently to global thinking about the interrelations of utopia and dystopia

Ideology, Power, Text Yi-tsi Mei Feuerwerker, 1998-10-01 The division between the scholar gentry class and the people was an enduring theme of the traditional Chinese agrarian bureaucratic state Twentieth century elites recast this as a division between intellectuals and peasants and made the confrontation between the writing intellectual self and the peasant other a central concern of literature The author argues that in the process they created the peasantry the downtrodden rural masses represented as proper objects of political action and shifting ideological agendas Throughout this transition language or discourse has been not only a weapon of struggle but the center of controversy and contention Because of this primacy of language the author's main approach is the close reading or rather re-reading of significant narrative fictions from four literary generations to demonstrate how historical ideological and cultural issues are absorbed articulated and debated within the text Three chapters each focus on one representative author The fiction of Lu Xun 1881-1936 which initiated the literary preoccupation with the victimized peasant is also about the identity crisis of the intellectual Zhao Shuli 1906-1970 upheld by the Communist Party as a model peasant writer tragically exemplifies in his career the inherent contradictions of such an assigned role In the post Mao era Gao Xiaosheng 1928 uses the ironic play of language to present a more ambiguous peasant while deflating intellectual pretensions The chapter on the last of the four generations examines several texts by Mo Yan 1956 Han Shaogong 1952 and Wang Anyi 1954 as examples of root searching fiction from the mid 1980s While reaching back into the past this fiction is paradoxically also experimental in technique the encounter with the peasant leads to questions about the self construction of the intellectual and the nature of narrative representation itself Throughout the focus is on texts in which some sort of representation or stand in of the writer intellectual self is present as character as witness as center of consciousness or as first person or obtrusive narrator Each story catches the writer in a self reflective mode the confrontation with the peasant other providing a theater for acting out varying dramas of identity power ideology political engagement and self representation The Faulkner Journal, 1992

The Politics of Cultural Capital Julia Lovell, 2006-03-31 In the 1980s China's politicians writers and academics began to raise an increasingly urgent question why had a Chinese writer never won a Nobel Prize for literature Promoted to the level of official policy issue and national complex Nobel anxiety generated articles conferences and official delegations to Sweden Exiled writer Gao Xingjian's win in 2000 failed to satisfactorily end the matter and the controversy surrounding the Nobel committee's choice has continued to simmer Julia Lovell's comprehensive study of China's obsession spans the twentieth century and taps directly into the key themes of modern Chinese culture national identity international status and the relationship between intellectuals and politics The intellectual preoccupation with the Nobel literature prize expresses tensions inherent in China's move toward a global culture after the collapse of the Confucian world view at the start of the twentieth century and particularly since China's re entry into the world economy in the post Mao era Attitudes toward the prize reveal the same contradictory mix of admiration resentment and anxiety that intellectuals and writers have long felt toward Western values as they struggled to shape a modern Chinese identity In short the Nobel complex reveals the pressure points in an intellectual community not entirely sure of itself Making use of extensive original research including interviews with leading contemporary Chinese authors and critics The Politics of Cultural Capital is a comprehensive up to date treatment of an issue that cuts to the heart of modern and contemporary Chinese thought and culture It will be essential reading for scholars of modern Chinese literature and culture globalization post colonialism and comparative and world literature
