The Political Arrays of American Indian Literary History James H. Cox,2019-09-17 Bringing fresh insight to a century of writing by Native Americans The Political Arrays of American Indian Literary History challenges conventional views of the past one hundred years of Native American writing bringing Native American Renaissance and post Renaissance writers into conversation with their predecessors Addressing the political positions such writers have adopted explored and debated in their work James H Cox counters what he considers a flattening of the politics of American Indian literary expression and sets forth a new method of reading Native literature in a vexingly politicized context Examining both canonical and lesser known writers Cox proposes that scholars approach these texts as political arrays confounding but also generative collisions of conservative moderate and progressive ideas that together constitute the rich political landscape of American Indian literary history. Reviewing a broad range of genres including journalism, short fiction, drama, screenplays, personal letters, and detective fiction by Lynn Riggs, Will Rogers, Sherman Alexie, Thomas King, Leslie Marmon Silko, Louise Erdrich, Winona LaDuke, Carole laFavor, and N. Scott Momaday, he demonstrates that Native texts resist efforts to be read as advocating a particular set of politics. Meticulously researched, The Political Arrays of American Indian Literary History represents a compelling case for reconceptualizing the Native American Renaissance as a literary historical constellation. By focusing on post-1968 Native writers and texts, argues Cox, critics have often missed how earlier writers were similarly entangled, hopeful, frustrated, contradictory, and unpredictable in their political engagements.

Recent Advances in Geo-Environmental Engineering, Geomechanics and Geotechnics, and Geohazards Amjad Kallel, Zeynal Abiddin Erguler, Zhen-Dong Cui, Ali Karrech, Murat Karakus, Pinnaduwa Kulatilake, Sanjay Kumar Shukla, 2018-12-31. This edited volume contains the best papers in the geo engineering field accepted for presentation at the 1st Springer Conference of the Arabian Journal of Geosciences, Tunisia 2018. In addition, it includes 3 keynotes by international experts on the following topics: 1. A new three-dimensional rock mass strength criterion; 2. New tools and techniques of remote sensing for geologic hazard assessment; 3. Land subsidence induced by the engineering environmental effects in Shanghai, China. The book is useful for readers who would like to get a broad coverage in geo engineering. It contains 11 chapters covering the following main areas: a. Applications in geo environmental engineering including soil remediation; b. Characterization of geo materials using geological, geotechnical, and geophysical techniques; c. Soil improvement applications; d. Soil behaviour under dynamic loading; e. Recent studies on expansive soils; f. Analytical and numerical modelling of various geo structures; g. Slope stability; h. Landslides; i. Subsidence studies; and j. Recent studies on various other types of geo hazards.

Sea Summit Yi Lu, 2015-11-10. Translated to English, this collection of contemporary Chinese poetry examines humanity's relationship with nature and the ecological crisis. Influenced by both the gray, sinister sea near the village where Yi Lu grew up during the Cultural Revolution and the beauty of the sea in the books she read as a child, Sea Summit is a collection of paradox and questioning. The sea is an impossible force to the poet; it is both a majestic presence that predates man and something to carry with us wherever we go, to be put by an ancient rattan chair so we can watch its waves toss from above. Exploring the current ecological crisis and our complicated relationship to the wildness around us, Yi Lu finds something more complex than a traditional nature poet might in the mysterious connection between herself and the forces of nature represented by the boundless ocean. Translated brilliantly by the acclaimed poet Fiona Sze Lorrain, this collection of poems introduces an important contemporary Chinese poet to English language readers. Praise for Sea Summit: Yi Lu is a theatre scenographer, and her poems brim with the imagistic tendencies we might expect from a visual artist. More specifically, her poetic style fits that of a theatrical set designer. Within the poetry of Sea Summit, the images are like set pieces. They play supporting roles as they help to tell the speaker's stories. Sensitive and poignant poetry. The Literary

Review A compilation of over twenty years of work Yi's poetry shows the world as staggeringly simultaneous from a crowded conference room in the middle of the city to the titanic wave rising under the incredible volume of the ocean This collection is a great introduction to Yi Lu already one of the most widely read poets in China The Los Angeles Review With this selection of more than 80 of her ecologically conscious lyric poems Yi receives a generous introduction to English readers The pastoral is Yi's mode of choice and the poems here take as their subject matter the natural world as well as the human experience of it Sze Lorrain's steadfast translations presented en face make accessible one of China's most famous woman poets Publishers Weekly

Sprouting Valley James R. Welch, 2013-05-10 In the mid nineteenth century the indigenous Potter Valley Pomo resided in large sedentary villages in Potter Valley California and travelled seasonally throughout an extensive territory in what are now Mendocino and Lake Counties Beginning in 1890 what would become nearly a half century of ethnographic research among members of this community homeopathic doctor and amateur anthropologist John W Hudson witnessed the aftermath of their dislocation and dispersal from the valley following the arrival of non indigenous settlers Although never published his fieldnotes contained an unparalleled dataset on plant use by a single local indigenous community in California In this richly illustrated monograph the author presents and interprets this historical ethnobotanical information in order to provide new insights into Potter Valley Pomo society and its relationship to the Northern California landscape
