The Representation of Science and Scientists on Postage Stamps Christopher B. Yardley, 2015-02-09 For approaching two centuries the images on postage stamps have been used to convey messages from the government of the day to the general public Science has been used to enhance those messages for the past nine decades In this book I explore the ways in which science and scientists have been portrayed on stamps and look at the ideas and in some cases the propaganda that underpins them Page 1

Frontier Science Matthew S. Wiseman, 2024-03-26 Between 1945 and 1970 Canada's Department of National Defence sponsored scientific research into the myriad challenges of military operations in cold regions To understand and overcome the impediments of the country's cold climate scientists studied cold weather acclimatization hypothermia frostbite and psychological morale for soldiers assigned to active duty in northern Canada Frontier Science investigates the history of military science in northern Canada during this period of the Cold War highlighting the consequences of government funded research for humans and nature alike The book reveals how under the guise of environmental protection research the Canadian military sprayed pesticides to clear bushed areas used radioactive substances to investigate vector borne diseases pursued race based theories of cold tolerance and enabled wide ranging tests of newly developed weapons and equipment In arguing that military research in northern Canada was a product of the Cold War Matthew S Wiseman tackles questions of government power scientific authority and medical and environmental research ethics Based on a long and deep pursuit of declassified records archival sources and oral testimony Frontier Science is a fascinating new history of military approaches to the human nature relationship Women in Agricultural Science

The Death of Science Andrew Holster,2016-07-26 Modern science is in unprecedented crisis It is a crisis at many levels continuous with larger crises of modern society It is a crisis for the vocation of the scientist working within the modern institutionalised structures of science It is a crisis for our capacity to use science benevolently to help solve larger material organisational and ultimately political problems of the modern era And it is a crisis for philosophy for the role of natural science to help inform our world view The Death of Science is an account of deeper causes of this malaise It starts by taking up the reins of L pez Corredoira s 2013 The Twilight of the Scientific Age a recent critique that concludes with modern science on its death bed It dissects key themes in detail illustrated in the same frank style drawing on personal examples It starts with deep issues in the philosophy of science recounting failed modern concepts of scientific progress method and truth going on to failures of peer review and gate keeping as quality control systems the domination of propaganda and marketing channels as the critical tools for professional success and the major outcome for creative scientists themselves the destruction of scientific creativity and exclusion of heterodox thinkers in this degraded environment It connects the behavioural symptoms with a psycho social analysis of the bureaucratic mode of organisation under which science like all other modern vocations is now subsumed The account supports L pez Corredoira s appraisal which sees a modern science industry driven by greed and ambition repressing imagination and freedom destructive of novelty and diversity of ideas controlled by bureaucratic academic power hierarchies While science is irrevocably corrupted by its modern mass institutionalisation the true spirit of science can only be sustained by individuals with a real vocation as scientists or natural philosophers who seek understanding and meaning and wisdom rather than technocratic specialisation and careers But it is increasingly impossible for scientists to withstand forces of professional conformity and maintain their personal sense of value A number of current controversies in some core sciences are also discussed and it is argued that the greatest revelations of real science are yet to come While Establishment Science has locked itself into dogmatic paradigms the failures of present theories show that we are really on the cusp of major revolutions spanning sciences of physics and cosmology information and intelligence biology and evolution and mind and consciousness If these are realised they will profoundly change our understanding of the nature of the world and ourselves But any such revolutions challenge a Science Establishment locked into the self interest of its power brokers and are unlikely to occur except through independent scientists working outside the institutional system The book concludes with a brief discussion of the place of independent scientists

Labs of Our Own Sig / Sara Giordano,2025-02-11 From climate change to COVID 19 to reproductive justice

there has been deep political polarization around science Labs of Our Own provides a unique entry point into these twenty first century science wars by focusing on our affective relationships to science The book delves into various sites where scientists teachers artists and activists claim to create more democratic access to science from DIY biology community labs to feminist classrooms to activist science practitioners The reader will find that these claims for and attempts at democratic sciences not only impact what counts as science and who counts as a scientist but reconfigure who is included in the proper public Instead of arguing for a knee jerk defense of science against right wing attacks Labs of Our Own builds the case for a feminist antiracist decolonial queer science tinkering practice that intentionally politically and ethically acts to produce new challenges to the definition and boundaries of the human
