The Oxford Handbook of Music and Intellectual Culture in the Nineteenth Century Paul Watt, Sarah Collins, Michael Allis, 2020 In The Oxford Handbook of Music and Intellectual Culture in the Nineteenth Century contributors consider the fascinating and unexpected ways that nineteenth century writing on music contributed to debates about evolution the scientific method psychology exoticism gender and the divide between high and low culture

The Oxford Handbook of Music Listening in the 19th and 20th Centuries Christian Thorau, Hansjakob Ziemer, 2019 An idealized image of European concert goers has long prevailed in historical overviews of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries This act of listening was considered to be an invisible and amorphous phenomenon a naturally given mode of perception This narrative influenced the conditions of listening from the selection of repertoire to the construction of concert halls and programmes However as listening moved from the concert hall to the opera house street music and jazz venues new and visceral listening traditions evolved In turn the art of listening was shaped by phenomena of the modern era including media innovation and commercialization This Handbook asks whether how and why practices of music listening changed as the audience moved from pleasure gardens and concert venues in the eighteenth century to living rooms in the twentieth century and mobile devices in the twenty first Through these questions chapters enable a differently conceived history of listening and offer an agenda for future research

French Music and Jazz in Conversation Deborah Mawer, 2014-12-04 French concert music and jazz often enjoyed a special creative exchange across the period 1900-65 French modernist composers were particularly receptive to early African American jazz during the interwar years and American jazz musicians especially those concerned with modal jazz in the 1950s and early 1960s exhibited a distinct affinity with French musical impressionism However despite a general if contested interest in the cultural interplay of classical music and jazz few writers have probed the specific French music jazz relationship in depth In this book

Deborah Mawer sets such musical interplay within its historical cultural and critical analytical contexts offering a detailed yet accessible account of both French and American perspectives Blending intertextuality with more precise borrowing techniques Mawer presents case studies on the musical interactions of a wide range of composers and performers including Debussy Satie Milhaud Ravel Jack Hylton George Russell Bill Evans and Dave Brubeck
