

1 INT. DAY: DON'S OFFICE (SUMMER 1945)

1

The PARAMOUNT Logo is presented austerely over a black background. There is a moment's hesitation, and then the simple words in white lettering:

THE GODFATHER

While this remains, we hear: "I believe in America." Suddenly we are watching in CLOSE VIEW, AMERIGO BONASERA, a man of sixty, dressed in a black suit, on the verge of great emotion.

BONASERA

America has made my fortune.

As he speaks, THE VIEW imperceptibly begins to loosen.

BONASERA

I raised my daughter in the American fashion; I gave her freedom, but taught her never to dishonor her family. She found a boy friend, not an Italian. She went to the movies with him, stayed out late. Two months ago he took her for a drive, with another boy friend. They made her drink whiskey and then they tried to take advantage of her. She resisted; she kept her honor. So they beat her like an animal. When I went to the hospital her nose was broken, her jaw was shattered and held together by wire, and she could not even weep because of the pain.

In Selling a Screenplay, Hollywood's script guru Syd Field gives you an insider's look at the movie and TV industry, packed with essential tips from the pros. They all started somewhere.

Screenwriting Andrew Horton, Julian Hoxter, 2014-08-23 Screenwriters often joke that no one ever paid a dollar at a movie theater to watch a screenplay. Yet the screenplay is where a movie begins, determining whether a production gets the green light from its financial backers and wins approval from its audience. This innovative volume gives readers a comprehensive portrait of the art and business of screenwriting while showing how the role of the screenwriter has evolved over the years. Reaching back to the early days of Hollywood when moonlighting novelists, playwrights, and journalists were first hired to write scenarios and photoplays, Screenwriting illuminates the profound ways that screenwriters have contributed to the films we love. This book explores the social, political, and economic implications of the changing craft of American screenwriting from the silent screen through the classical Hollywood years, the rise of independent cinema, and on to the contemporary global multi-media marketplace. From The Birth of a Nation (1915) to Gone With the Wind (1939) and Gentleman's Agreement (1947) to Chinatown (1974), American Beauty (1999), and Lost in Translation (2003), each project began as writers with pen and ink, typewriters, or computers captured the hopes and dreams, the nightmares and concerns of the periods in which they were writing. As the contributors take us behind the silver screen to chronicle the history of screenwriting, they spotlight a range of key screenplays that changed the game in Hollywood and beyond. With original essays from both distinguished film scholars and accomplished screenwriters, Screenwriting is sure to fascinate anyone with an interest in Hollywood, from movie buffs to industry professionals.

Writers in Hollywood, 1915-1951 Ian Hamilton, 1990 In this witty probing and sometimes hilarious account Ian Hamilton traces the history of screenwriting from the crude subtitles of Birth of a Nation to the sardonic ironies of Sunset Boulevard a film that opens with a screenwriter floating face down in Gloria Swanson's swimming pool By 1950 when that Billy Wilder film was released the image of the writer in Hollywood was well established a guilt ridden malcontent who'd sold out to Tinsel Town and was treated like dirt by the studio system This is just one of the caricatures Hamilton challenges There are the famous cases Fitzgerald Hammett Chandler Faulkner and West but Hamilton also explores the world of the professional screenwriters those ex newspapermen failed playwrights and New York wits who flooded into Hollywood during the Great Talkies Panic and stayed to take both the big money and the indignity of toiling on a literary assembly line producing scripts that were then red penciled by Hays Office censors studio moguls martinet directors and wartime propagandists Here are the great fights over screen credits on

Citizen Kane and Casablanca Here is Sam Goldwyn haplessly trying to fathom Nobel laureate Maurice Maeterlinck's avant garde work Here are the long fight over the Screen Writers Guild the story of the Hollywood Ten and the conflicting political pressures that wracked the industry during the pre and postwar years Here are not just the spectacular failures but those writers like P G Wodehouse who took the money and ran and those like Ben Hecht Nunnally Johnson Herman Mankiewicz and Anita Loos highly paid professionals who produced box office successes still loved by moviegoers sixty years later Full of wonderful anecdotes about writers strange rites of passage through a callow but exuberant industry and with engaging firsthand accounts from the likes of Faulkner Wodehouse Dorothy Parker and G B Shaw the book vividly portrays the golden era of the major studios and offers a timely reminder that all those old movies really began life on the page From jacket flap

William Faulkner in Hollywood Stefan Solomon, 2017-08 During more than two decades 1932-1954 William Faulkner worked on approximately fifty screenplays for studios including MGM 20th Century Fox and Warner Bros and was credited on such classic films as The Big Sleep and To Have and Have Not The scripts that Faulkner wrote for film and later on television constitute an extensive and until now thoroughly underexplored archival source Stefan Solomon not only analyzes the majority of these scripts but compares them to the novels and short stories Faulkner was writing at the same time Solomon's aim is to reconcile two aspects of a career that were not as distinct as they first might seem Faulkner as a screenwriter and Faulkner as a high modernist Nobel Prize winning author Faulkner's Hollywood sojourns took place during a period roughly bounded by the publication of Light in August 1932 and A Fable 1954 and that also saw the publication of Absalom Absalom Go Down Moses and Intruder in the Dust As Solomon shows Faulkner attuning himself to the idiosyncrasies of the screenwriting process a craft he never favored or admired he offers insights into Faulkner's compositional practice thematic preoccupations and understanding of both classic cinema and the emerging medium of television In the midst of this complex exchange of media and genres much of Faulkner's fiction of the 1930s and 1940s was directly influenced by his protracted engagement with the film industry Solomon helps us to see a corpus integrating two vastly different modes of writing and a restless author sensitive to the different demands of each Faulkner was never simply the southern novelist or the West Coast hack writer but always both at once Solomon's study shows that Faulkner's screenplays are crucial in any consideration of his far more esteemed fiction and that the two forms of writing are more porous and intertwined than the author himself would have us believe Here is a major American writer seen in a remarkably new way
