Constituting Central American-Americans Maritza E. Cárdenas,2018-07-09 Central Americans are the third largest and fastest growing Latino population in the United States And yet despite their demographic presence there has been little scholarship focused on this group Constituting Central American Americans is an exploration of the historical and disciplinary conditions that have structured U S Central American identity and of the ways in which this identity challenges how we frame current discussions of Latina o American ethnic and diasporic identities By focusing on the formation of Central American identity in the U S Maritza E C rdenas challenges us to think about Central America and its diaspora in relation to other U S ethno racial identities

Land Grab Keri Vacanti Brondo,2013-06-06 Land Grab is a rich ethnographic account of the relationship between identity politics neoliberal development policy and rights to resource management in Garifuna communities on the north coast of Honduras before and after the 2009 coup d tat The Garifuna are a people of African and Amerindian descent who were exiled to Honduras from the British colony of St Vincent in 1797 and have long suffered from racial and cultural marginalization Employing approaches from feminist political ecology critical race studies and ethnic studies Keri Vacanti Brondo illuminates three contemporary development paradoxes in Honduras the recognition of the rights of indigenous people at the same time as Garifuna are being displaced in the name of development the privileging of foreign research tourists in projects that promote ecotourism but result in restricting Garifuna from traditional livelihoods and the contradictions in Garifuna land rights claims based on native status when mestizos are reserving rights to resources as natives themselves Brondo s book asks a larger question can freedom understood as well being be achieved under the structures of neoliberalism Grounding this question in the context of Garifuna relationships to territorial control and self determination the author explores the reregulation of Garifuna land neoliberal conservation strategies like ecotourism research tourism and voluntourism the significant issue of who controls access to property and natural resources and the rights of women who have been harshly impacted by development In her conclusion Brondo points to hopeful signs in the emergence of transnational indigenous environmental and feminist organizations

Social Closure and International Society Tristen Naylor, 2018-12-07 Laying the foundations of a theory of international social closure this book examines how actors compete for a seat at the table in the management of international society and how that competition stratifies the international domain In a broad historical survey from the Family of Civilised Nations through the Great Powers club to the G7 and G20 today Naylor investigates the politics of membership in the exclusive clubs that manage international society and ensure its survival providing us with a new way to think about how status competition has changed over time and what this means for international politics today With its sociologically grounded theory this book advances English School scholarship and transforms the study of contemporary summitry providing a ground breaking approach rooted in archival research elite interviews and ethnographic participant observation This book is of interest to international relations scholars interested in the expansion and globalisation of international society the history of international summits and transformations in international order as well as to those examining concepts including stratification hierarchy and networked governance With its emphasis on non state actors in global governance scholars and practitioners alike working on for civil society will also find this research of great value

Global Tourism Sarah M. Lyon, E. Christian Wells, 2012-03-15 Global tourism is perhaps the largest scale movement of goods services and people in history Consequently it is a significant catalyst for economic development and sociopolitical change While tourism increasingly accounts for ever greater segments of national economies the consequences of this growth for intercultural interaction are diverse and uncertain The proliferation of tourists also challenges classic theoretical descriptions of just what an economy is What are the commodities being consumed What is the division of labor between producers and clients in creating the value of tourist exchanges How do culture power and history shape these interactions What are the prospects for sustainable tourism How is cultural heritage being shaped by tourists around the world These critical questions inspired this volume in which the contributors explore the connections among economy sustainability heritage and identity that tourism and related processes makes explicit The volume moves beyond the limits of place specific discussions case studies and best practice examples Accordingly it is organized according to three overarching themes exploring dimensions of cultural heritage the multi faceted impacts of tourism on both hosts and guests and the nature of touristic encounters Based on ethnographic and archaeological research conducted in distinct locations the contributors conclusions and theoretical arguments reach far beyond the limits of isolated case studies Together they contribute to a new synthesis for the anthropology of tourism while simultaneously demonstrating how emerging theories of the economics of tourism can lead to the rethinking of traditionally non touristic enterprises from farming to medical occupations
