Boggs, 2022-11-25 When talking pictures first appeared in cinema theaters in the late 1920s films about newspaper journalists quickly became a Hollywood mainstay These were a variety of responses from working reporters editors and photographers The newspaper film was a popular genre in the 1950s and famous films such as All the President's Men 1976 and Spotlight 2015 have depicted the power of the press Journalists have also been portrayed in films that are not specifically about newspapers appearing in noir films like Woman on the Run 1950 Westerns such as Fort Worth 1951 comedies like The Ghost and Mr Chicken 1966 musicals like Wake Up and Live 1937 and historical epics like Lawrence of Arabia 1962 A film historian and former newspaper writer the author investigates how accurately films have portrayed journalists across the decades The book also details what journalists thought of the depictions at the time contributing to brief histories and analyses for each film Featured journalist archetypes include airy reporters screaming editors photographers sportswriters and war journalists Classics misfires Westerns obscure treasures and films the press both adored and detested are all included in this comprehensive here

Metro Newspaper Journalists in China Zhaoxi (Josie) Liu, 2016-08-25 This book explores how journalists at local metro papers in a south western China metropolis give meaning to their work and how these meanings are shaped by the specific social environment within which these journalists operate These metro papers provide the bulk of daily news to the general public in China yet are often understudied compared to the country's party news outlets Informed by fieldwork in four metro newspapers the book puts forward a grounded theory for exploring journalists occupational culture the aspiration frustration reconciliation framework

The Washington Reporters Stephen Hess, 2010-12-01 In the vast literature on the way democratic governments work the role of the press is often overlooked Yet the press no less than the formal branches of government is a public policy institution and deserves to be included in explanations of the governmental process In The Washington Reporters Stephen Hess focuses on those who cover the U S government for the American commercial news media His book is based on interviews with reporters and editors and on responses to questionnaires from nearly half of the over 1 200 American reporters in Washington Analysis of these responses and comparison with the content and placement of over 2 000 of these reporters news stories permit an unusual and sometimes startling perspective on Washington newswork Mr Hess demonstrates for instance how information in the news regularly comes from the legislative branch of the government despite the greater number of stories on the presidency and he shows that Washington news dominates the front pages of daily newspapers across the country no matter how little may be going on in the nation's capital The author concludes that Washington news gathering fragments media power while at the same time it shifts decisions on what is news and how it should be covered to the reporters The import of this impression is that reporters are not simply passing along information they are choosing within certain limits what most people will know about government The freedom given and assumed by

Hartley, 1999 It is often noted that the public is frustrated with the news media But what do American voters really think about how the media present political information While studies have examined how the news shapes opinions as well as what people respond to and remember this is the first book to provide an in depth analysis of how voters use and evaluate the news media in political elections and the impact these trends have on their use of the news Kenneth Dautrich and Thomas H Hartley performed a four wave national panel survey of voters during the 1996 presidential campaign They found that although voters are profoundly dissatisfied with the usefulness of news in helping them make decisions they are unlikely to stop using the news media or switch media from network news to public broadcasting for instance Thus the media have little incentive to adjust to the needs or wishes of voters Here is an important contribution to the debate about the responsibilities of the news media raging among pundits and policymakers Bulletin of the United States Bureau of Labor Statistics, 1913
