Reclaiming Education Continuum Studies In Education Policy:

Reclaiming Education James Tooley, 2005-03-01 What is wrong with education Why do educational reforms always miss their target How can we create a better education system And what can we learn from other countries Reclaiming Education tackles the challenges facing education that really matter the ones that academics often ignore parents demand solution to and politicians need to confront Drawing on his global research James Tooley shows that there is an alternative to poor quality and wasteful inefficiency in education and that education can be radically transformed to guarantee freedom and higher standards Tooley radically challenges any complacency we may have about education in the 21st century Sir Bob Salisbury Tooley is an extremist some of his ideas are outrageous Professor Geoffrey Walford University of Oxford This is truly a radical book It should be read by everyone who thinks deeply about education Sir Christopher Ball Lacan and Education Policy Matthew Clarke, 2019-06-13 Lacan and Education Policy draws on the rich conceptual resources of Lacanian psychoanalysis Using Lacan's four discourses Matthew Clarke offers a sophisticated critique of recent education policy and the neoliberal model of political economy within which it sits including the ways in which education has been diminished and trivialised through the economic and depoliticising moves of policy Clarke articulates possibilities for thinking differently about education and education policy beyond the reductive narratives of neoliberalism He argues that psychoanalytic theory is valuable not so much for allowing us to see what education really is but for offering insights into what prevents education from being enabling us to shift our focus instead into the possibilities education offers as a space of becoming The book suggests possibilities for conceptualising and creating the other side of education A Political Sociology of Education Policy Helen Gunter, 2024-05-14 This book aims to restore the role of political analysis in education policy by presenting a new political sociology for framing conducting and presenting research In doing so it will be the first in the field to connect political thinking from Arendt with sociological thinking from Bourdieu The Politics of Public Education Gunter, Helen M., 2018-11-28 At a time when public education and reform agendas are changing the way we approach education this book critically examines the key issues facing the public with implications for education policy makers professionals and researchers Drawing on empirical evidence gathered over 20 years Helen Gunter confronts current issues about social justice and segregation She uses Arendtian ideas to help the reader to think politically about education and how and why public services education can be reimagined for the future Marxisms and Education Noah De Lissovoy, 2019-07-23 Beginning from the premise that a range of Marxist theoretical tendencies or Marxisms inform recent critical scholarship in education this volume reaffirms rearticulates and interrogates central philosophical and practical commitments in this tradition Chapters engage important issues confronting the field in the present conjuncture in global capitalism including the meaning of democratic education neoliberalism's ideological and material assault on teaching and learning relationships between race and class in schooling and society models for critical and emancipatory pedagogy the implication of education in imperialism and colonialism and links between education and revolutionary organizations and movements Rather than attempting to provide a comprehensive view of the field this volume presents a diverse set of crucial interventions that take up foundational as well as contemporary developments in Marxist theory and consider their implications for the field of education The chapters in this book were originally published as journal articles by Taylor and Francis

Private Schooling in Less Economically Developed Countries Prachi Srivastava, Geoffrey Walford, 2007-05-14 The increased marketisation and privatisation of schooling in economically developing countries struggling to achieve Education for All and Millennium Development Goals warrants a focused examination of the phenomenon However there is little work on the nature and extent of private provision in countries that on the one hand are striving to meet international commitments of universal schooling provision and on the other face such challenges as constrained public budgets low levels of quality and persistent schooling gaps This volume brings together new research evidence from academics and policy makers on the nature and extent of private provision in a range of countries across Asia and Africa As South Asia and sub Saharan Africa account for the majority of the world's population of children out of school this book sheds new light on the changing context of schooling provision in some of the most vulnerable regions Of particular interest is the nature and potential impact of private provision on the educational opportunities of economically and socially disadvantaged children

Unbundling the University Curriculum Kate O'Connor, 2022-09-02 In a context in which explicit attention to the curriculum has been sidelined in universities strategy this book makes an argument for why curriculum matters both in understanding the effects of unbundled online learning and more broadly It takes up two particular curriculum issues which are amplified in an unbundled context differences in the formulation of curriculum between disciplines and professional fields and the extent these are recognised in university strategy and the push for constructivist pedagogies and its effects on curriculum construction Since the onslaught of MOOCs in 2012 unbundled forms of online learning offered via partnerships with external online program management and MOOC providers have grown significantly across the university sector There has been much debate about the implications of these partnerships but the focus has predominantly been on the engagement of students and their learning This book takes a different and novel approach looking instead at the effects on curriculum and knowledge Drawing on selected case studies the book reflects on how university leaders and academics engaged with MOOCs and other forms of unbundled online learning in the early 2010s and the effects of these reforms on curriculum practice It captures in detail the complex and difficult work involved in university curriculum making in a way rarely seen in discussions of higher education And it generates new insights about some of the critical problems manifest in the ongoing moves to embrace unbundled online learning today Politics, Education and Social Change

Agnieszka Gromkowska-Melosik, Inetta Nowosad, Aleksandra Boroń, Marzanna Farnicka, Marcin Gierczyk, 2025-01-20 The authors analyse macro level political decisions across various societies as well as individual actions and experiences to advocate for a more inclusive and effective education system capable of driving social change They consider relationships between politics education and social change in various contexts and dimensions The macro level of educational policy and politics is confronted with the micro realities of human biographies However the authors do not consider people who are influenced by political decisions as incapacitated mass Thus social change always results from these macro micro connections This interdisciplinary book includes themes related to political sciences education and sociology which resulted from the authors study of contemporary social and education phenomena It gives insight into interesting paradoxes and controversies Consultants and Consultancy: the Case of Education Helen M. Gunter, Colin Mills, 2017-02-27 This book is a comprehensive study into and about consultants doing consultancy and having influence in ways that generate concerns about an emerging consultocracy with privileged access to governments and public services It presents a detailed mapping of consultants and consultancy in education as a site of change and modernisation in public sector service provision It considers consultancy at a macro level of globalised policy at a meso level of national government policy and at a micro level with vivid descriptions and analyses of consultants at work The rapid rise of edubusinesses combined with the restructuring of public services in western style democracies has generated new types of knowledge actors within education policy Three main developments that have led to this change are the entry of education policy and service consultants from within major companies into the public education marketplace the emergence of celebrity entrepreneurial actors and private businesses who make interventions into Universities and schools and the rapid growth of small businesses based on individuals who have relocated their work from the public to the private sector Such knowledge actors and the complexities they bring to public education are as yet under described and largely untheorized Based on current research and drawing upon a range of theoretical tools this book fills the gap Gunter and Mills provide an invaluable contribution to scholarship on the neoliberal restructuring of public education by mapping and analyzing the under examined yet central role of corporate education consultants Their thoughtful and thorough discussion expands our understanding of how consultants promote and trade in the ideologies of corporate culture Gunter and Mills show how consultants are integral to both knowledge making practices in schools and a radical reform agenda for schools in the UK and around the globe This is an accessible and important volume for not just policy and politics scholars but anyone concerned about defending public forms of education and associated living at a moment when they are increasingly being positioned for pillage by profiteers Kenneth J Saltman University of Massachusetts Dartmouth USA American Public Education and the Responsibility of its Citizens Sarah M. Stitzlein, 2017-06-01 Public school systems are central to a flourishing democracy where children learn how to solve problems together build shared identities and come to value justice and liberty for all However as citizen support for public schools steadily declines our democratic way of life is increasingly at risk Often we hear about the poor performances of students and teachers in the public school system but as author Sarah M Stitzlein asserts in her compelling new volume the current educational crisis is not about accountability but rather citizen responsibility Now more than ever citizens increasingly do not feel as though public schools are our schools forgetting that we have influence over their outcomes and are responsible for their success In effect accountability becomes more and more about finding failure and casting blame on our school administrators and teachers rather than taking responsibility as citizens for shaping our expectations of the classroom determining the criteria we use to measure its success and supporting our public schools as they nurture our children for the future American Public Education and the Responsibility of its Citizens sheds an important light on recent shifts in the link between education and citizenship helping readers to understand not only how schools now work but also how citizens can take an active and influential role in shaping them Moving from philosophical critique of these changes to practical suggestions for action Stitzlein provides readers with the tools habits practices and knowledge necessary to support public education Further by sharing examples of citizens and successful communities that are effectively working with their school systems Stitzlein offers a torch of hope to sustain citizens through this difficult work in order to keep our democracy strong

Ladd, Susanna Loeb, Adam Swift, 2018-01-26 An ambitious effort that succeeds in providing a fundamentally new way to talk about and think about policy choices in education Jeffrey R Henig Teachers College Columbia University We spend a lot of time arguing about how schools might be improved But we rarely take a step back to ask what we as a society should be looking for from education what exactly should those who make decisions be trying to achieve In Educational Goods two philosophers and two social scientists address this very question They begin by broadening the language for talking about educational policy educational goods are the knowledge skills and attitudes that children develop for their own benefit and that of others childhood goods are the valuable experiences and freedoms that make childhood a distinct phase of life Balancing those and understanding that not all of them can be measured through traditional methods is a key first step From there they show how to think clearly about how those goods are distributed and propose a method for combining values and evidence to reach decisions They conclude by showing the method in action offering detailed accounts of how it might be applied in school finance accountability and choice The result is a reimagining of our decision making about schools one that will sharpen our thinking on familiar debates and push us toward better outcomes Every education decision maker and every education researcher would benefit from reading this book David N Figlio School of Education and Social Policy Northwestern University Imaginative informative and unfailingly constructive Michael S McPherson co author of Lesson Plan An Agenda for Change in American Higher Education

Rodríguez,2015-06-04 This book discusses current market based educational discourses and how they have undermined the notion of the public in public education by allowing private visions of education to define the public democratic imagination Against this discouraging background this text embraces Freire's understanding of hope as an ontological need and calls for finding new public grounds for our public imagination It further articulates Freire's mandate to unveil historically concrete practices to sustain democratic educational visions no matter how difficult this task may be by 1 presenting an indepth description of the pedagogies and curriculums of eleven schools across historical and geographical locations that have worked or are still working with disenfranchised communities and that have publicly hoped for a better future for their students and by 2 reflecting on how the stories of these schools offer us new opportunities to rethink our own pedagogical commitment to public visions of education To promote this reflection this book offers the notion of publicly imagined public education as a conceptual tool to help understand the historical and discursive specificity of schools hopes and to re claim public schools as legitimate sites of public imagination New Materialisms and Environmental Education David A. G.

Clarke,Jamie Mcphie,2023-07-24 New materialisms refers to a broad contemporary and significant movement of thought across the social sciences and cultural studies which attempts to re turn to renew or create alternative philosophies of matter Such philosophies spring from multiple sources but are in general an attempt to bring the indissolubility of the social and environmental more forcefully into our analytical frames and modes of inquiry and tackle a perceived over reliance on discourse and language in the so called post modern era of philosophy and social science This movement in thought is underlaid by and meets up with the climate and biodiversity crises and the nature of the human condition and modes of learning or becoming within the field of environmental education This volume brings together academics working at differing intersections of environmental education and new materialisms highlighting tensions knots and lines of flight across and for research practice and theory As such this collection draws on multiple interpretations and streams of thought within new materialisms and demonstrates their significance for those engaging with environmental education policy practice and research This book was originally published as a special issue of the journal Environmental Education Research The Politics of Knowledge in Education Elizabeth Rata,2012 This book explores the decline of the teaching of epistemic conceptual knowledge in schools its replacement with everyday social knowledge and its relation to changes in the division of labor within the global economy It argues that the emphasis on social knowledge in postmodern and social constructionist pedagogy compounds the problem and examines the consequences of these changes for educational opportunity and democracy itself      Knowledge, Curriculum and Equity Brian Barrett, Ursula Hoadley, John Morgan, 2017-07-20 In 2008 the first in a series of symposia established a social realist case for knowledge as an alternative to the relativist tendencies of the constructivist post structuralist and postmodernist approaches dominant in the sociology of education The second symposium focused on curriculum and the development of a theoretical language grounded in social realism to talk about issues of knowledge and curriculum Finally the third symposium brought together researchers in a broad range of contexts to build on these ideas and arguments and with a concerted empirical focus bring these social realist ideas and arguments into conversation with data Knowledge Curriculum and Equity Social Realist Perspectives contains the work of the third symposium where the strengths and gaps in the social realist approach are identified and where there is critical recognition of the need to incrementally extend the theories through empirical study Fundamentally the problem that social realism is seeking to address is about understanding the social conditions of knowledge production and exchange as well as its structuring in the curriculum and in pedagogy The central concern is with the on going social reproduction of inequality through schooling and exploring whether and how foregrounding specialised knowledge and its access holds the possibility for interrupting it This book consists of 13 chapters by different authors working in Oceania Asia Europe Africa and North America From very different vantage points the authors focus their theoretical and empirical sights on the assumptions about knowledge that underpin educational processes and the pursuit of more equitable schooling for all      International Encyclopedia of Education ,2009-04-17 The field of education has experienced extraordinary technological societal and institutional change in recent years making it one of the most fascinating yet complex fields of study in social science Unequalled in its combination of authoritative scholarship and comprehensive coverage International Encyclopedia of Education Third Edition succeeds two highly successful previous editions 1985 1994 in aiming to encapsulate research in this vibrant field for the twenty first century reader Under development for five years this work encompasses over 1 000 articles across 24 individual areas of coverage and is expected to become the dominant resource in the field Education is a multidisciplinary and international field drawing on a wide range of social sciences and humanities disciplines and this new edition comprehensively matches this diversity The diverse background and multidisciplinary subject coverage of the Editorial Board ensure a balanced and objective academic framework with 1 500 contributors representing over 100 countries capturing a complete portrait of this evolving field A totally new work revamped with a wholly new editorial board structure and brand new list of meta sections and articles Developed by an international panel of editors and authors drawn from senior academia Web enhanced with supplementary multimedia audio and video files hotlinked to relevant references and sources for further study Incorporates ca 1 350 articles with timely coverage of such topics as technology and learning demography and social change globalization and adult learning to name a few Offers two content delivery options print and
