Revisioning Writers' Talk Mary Ann Cain, 1995-01-01 Stressing the social dimensions of composing this book inquires into the problems of interpreting and representing writers' talk in both academic and self-directed writing groups arguing for the value of such talk as a distinct mode of knowing that both complements and criticizes more traditional forms of inquiry Emphasizing the role of writers' talk in shaping the text that they produce it discusses the problem of representing and interpreting writers' talk in the context of composition studies using feminist theoretical perspectives to illuminate the difficulty in representing the writer as a knowing subject neither essentialist nor totally constructivist Revisioning Writers' Talk also investigates the idea of the social in social constructivist theories of composing arguing that they maintain rather than demystify hierarchies of discourse and in turn the subjects and objects of composing Cain's own story of composing is told in the context of her educational experiences as a writer Finally the book discusses the constructions of power and authority by both academic and self-directed writing groups

Learning, Teaching, and Community Lucinda Pease-Alvarez, Sandra R. Schecter, 2006-04-21 This volume brings together established and new scholarly voices to explore how participatory and situated approaches to learning can contribute to educational innovation The contributors' critical examinations of educational programming and engagements provide insights into how educators, youth, families, and community members understand and enact their commitments to diversity and equitable access Collectively these essays complicate notions of community alerting readers to ways in which community can be constructed other than in geographical and ethnoracial terms as alliances and collaborations of individuals joining together to accomplish or negotiate shared agendas The focus on agency combined with social context a dialectic to which all of the authors speak enlarges and invigorates our sense of what is pedagogically possible in societies characterized by diversity and flux Part I Linking Pedagogy to Communities focuses on dynamic initiatives where practitioners collaborate with community members and other professionals as they acknowledge and build on the cultural, linguistic, and intellectual resources of ethnic minority students and their communities Part II Professional Learning for Diversity centers on the authors' experiences in facilitating opportunities for working with prospective and practicing teachers to develop situated pedagogies highlighting both the challenges that emerge and the transformations that occur Part III Learning in Community and Community in Learning illustrates how educational innovation can extend beyond the realm of schools and classrooms by elucidating ways in which individuals construct learning venues in out-of-school settings Learning, Teaching, and Community Contributions of Situated and Participatory Approaches to Educational Innovation is a compelling and timely text ideally suited for courses focused on
