reimagining of urban centers in Central Asia Based on extensive research in Russian and Uzbek archives Stronski shows us how Soviet officials planners and architects strived to integrate local ethnic traditions and socialist ideology into a newly constructed urban space and propaganda showcase The Soviets planned to transform Tashkent from a feudal city of the tsarist era into a flourishing garden replete with fountains a lakeside resort modern roadways schools hospitals apartment buildings and of course factories The city was intended to be a shining example to the world of the successful assimilation of a distinctly non Russian city and its citizens through the catalyst of socialism As Stronski reveals the physical building of this Soviet city was not an end in itself but rather a means to change the people and their society Stronski analyzes how the local population of Tashkent reacted to resisted and eventually acquiesced to the city s socialist transformation He records their experiences of the Great Terror World War II Stalin s death and the developments of the Krushchev and Brezhnev eras up until the earthquake of 1966 which leveled large parts of the city Stronski finds that the Soviets established a legitimacy that transformed Tashkent and its people into one of the more stalwart supporters of the regime through years of political and cultural changes and finally during the upheavals of glasnost Fabergé Eggs Will Lowes,Christel Ludewig McCanless,2001

This work presents detailed technical descriptions of 66 Faberge eggs as well as the stories of people involved in their making or presentation The Practical Mechanic's Journal ,1862 Colonial Theories of Institutional Development

Daniel Oto-Peralías,Diego Romero-Ávila,2017-03-23 This book analyzes the role played by initial endowments and colonizer identity in seeking to explain institutional development in former colonies It presents a model of two styles of imperialism that integrates the colonial origin and endowment views explaining current institutions The authors argue that Great Britain and Portugal adopted an economically oriented style which was pragmatic and sensitive to initial conditions For this style of imperialism the endowment view is applicable In contrast France employed a politically oriented style of imperialism in which ideological and political motivations were more present This led to a uniform colonial policy that largely disregarded initial endowments In turn the case of Spain represents a hybrid of the two models The empirical analysis presented here reveals a remarkable degree of heterogeneity in the relationship of endowments and colonizer identity with current institutions
