Sacramentos Land Park Images Of America:

Sacramento's Land Park Jocelyn Munroe Isidro, 2005 Sacramento wasn't always so proud of the area now called Land Park. In fact, due to a notorious roadhouse at Sutterville and Riverside roads, the city took great pains to distance itself from here in the early days, calling the roadhouse and environs a foul plague spot and a sink of iniquity and purposely excluding it from city borders. But times change, and the 1911 death of hotelier and philanthropist William Land set the stage for Land Park's remarkable renaissance. A bequest in Land's will directed that some monies be used to find a recreation spot for the children and a pleasure ground for the poor, and so began the pleasant area of homes, parklands, and riverfront paths we know today.

Sacramento's Curtis Park Dan Murphy, 2005 This peaceful community loved by thousands of locals was once in part a Mexican land grant called New Helvetia, given to John Sutter. With the 1852 arrival of homesteader and area namesake William Curtis, who managed a 200-acre farm started by his brother, and those drawn by the California gold rush, the area began to develop and expand. In 1887, papers were filed for the Highland Park subdivision, a nod to early flood concerns. Since that time, more than 30 other subdivisions have sprung up between Broadway and Sutterville, along with the Sierra School, which has been nominated for city landmark status. Situated south of today's Broadway, the area that was once a flood plain and then an agricultural area now holds over 2,500 homes and is among the city's most vibrant neighborhoods. Houses here represent various architectural styles from Victorian to Arts and Crafts, and the various 1920s revivals. The neighborhood has an equally interesting mix of residents.

Sacramento's Oak Park Lee M. A. Simpson, 2004 The history of American cities is a history of suburbs. It is a history of moving out and settling in, of technological innovation, of rearrangements of space, and the creation and erosion of community. Oak Park was Sacramento's first suburb, and before being officially annexed to the city in 1911, it prided itself on having separate law enforcement, its own newspaper, and perhaps most importantly, its own amusement park, Joyland. Unlike the more elite neighborhoods of Land Park and East Sacramento, Oak Park has always reflected working-class values and a less pretentious approach to architecture. Today, Oak Park is actively rediscovering and reestablishing its roots as a distinct vital community and urban center.

Subprime Cities Manuel B. Aalbers, 2012-04-16 Subprime Cities: The Political Economy of Mortgage Markets presents a collection of works from social scientists that offer insights into mortgage markets and the causes, effects, and aftermath of the recent subprime mortgage crisis. Provides an even-handed and detailed analysis of mortgage markets and the recent housing crisis. Features contributions from various social scientists with expertise in critical social theories who have assembled and analyzed detailed empirical information. Offers a unique and powerful rebuttal to many of the misleading popular explanations of the crisis and its aftermath. Reveals how racial minorities and the neighborhoods inhabited by them are more likely to be targeted by subprime and predatory lenders.

Sacramento's Boulevard Park Don Cox, Paula Boghosian, 2006 Perhaps more than any other Central Valley community, Sacramento is changing so rapidly as to become almost unrecognizable. New housing projects and ongoing redevelopment efforts have led to a decline in the original elegant homes in this city Thankfully this is not the case in Boulevard Park Preservationists and architectural historians have prevailed in this neighborhood to keep the Colonial Revival and Craftsman homes intact for the most part even as the city around them grows as never before Boulevard Park sits on the site of the old Union Park racetrack where Edweard Muybridges early experiments in motion picture technology photographing Occidental Leland Stanfords horse were pioneered in the 1870s the street signs here have a horse andcarriage motif to honor those equine origins Perhaps more than any other Central Valley community Sacramento is changing so rapidly as to become almost unrecognizable New hou si ng project s a nd ongoi ng redevelopment efforts have led to a decline in the original elegant homes in this city Thankfully this is not the case in Boulevard Park Preservationists and architectural historians have prevailed in this neighborhood to keep the Colonial Revival and Craftsman homes intact for the most part even as the city around them grows as never before Boulevard Park sits on the site of the old Union Park racetrack where Edweard Muybridges early experiments in motion picture technology photographing Occidental Leland Stanfords horse were pioneered in the 1870s the street signs here have a horse andcarriage motif to honor those equine origins

Sacramento's Greenhaven/Pocket Area Carol Ann Gregory,2001-10-23 The Greenhaven Pocket community is located just southwest of downtown Sacramento Geographically its unique location is within a meandering bend of the Sacramento River thus termed the Pocket because it is bounded by the Sacramento River to the north west and south Captured here in over 180 vintage images are the sorrows and triumphs of the area s earliest settlers encompassing the continents of the world and spanning over a century The Greenhaven Pocket area was a rural farming community for 110 years before suburban development with the most significant group of people contributing to the area s history and identity being Portuguese immigrants from the Azores Islands of Faial Pico Sao Jorge and Terceira They began arriving a few years after the Gold Rush and by 1880 almost half of the Portuguese population in Sacramento County was within these townships that encompassed and surrounded the Riverside Pocket area Pictured here is the evolution of this thriving community from the earliest founding families and their sprawling ranches to the Japanese settlement of World War I and finally to the innovative Greenhaven 70 plan development in the 1960s that laid the foundation for today s community

Sacramento's Streetcars William Burg,2006 Until 1947 Sacramento s streetcars linked a bustling downtown district with residential neighborhoods workplaces and a growing series of suburbs Starting with horse drawn cars on Front Street the streetcar system owned by the Pacific Gas and Electric Company expanded to include Midtown Curtis Park Land Park Oak Park and East Sacramento But PG two other companies ran streetcar routes downtown along with suburban lines to West Sacramento North Sacramento Rio Linda Elverta Colonial Heights and Colonial Acres Sacramentans rode the cars to work to school to the state fair and just about anywhere they wanted to go until the streetcars were replaced by buses owned by National City Lines

by the attack on Pearl Harbor Sacramento dragged itself out of the morass of the Great Depression and joined the war effort Local citizens trained for Japanese attacks through Civilian Defense cultivated thousands of acres of victory gardens and harnessed the agricultural riches of the region Tens of thousands engaged in war work at local bases like the new McClellan Field while Sacramento's diverse servicemen distinguished themselves in combat overseas They would later return and transform the city into the modern Sacramento of today Exclusive images and stories from the Special Collections of the Sacramento Public Library bring this story to life American Book Publishing Record ,2006 Sacramento's Land Park Jocelyn Munroe Isidro,2005-05-01 Sacramento wasn't always so proud of the area now called Land Park In fact due to a notorious roadhouse at Sutterville and Riverside roads the city took great pains to distance itself from here in the early days calling the roadhouse and environs a foul plaguespot and a sink of iniquity and purposely excluding it from city borders But times change and the 1911 death of hotelier and philanthropist William Land set the stage for Land Park's remarkable renaissance A bequest in Land's will directed that some monies be used to find a recreation spot for the children and a pleasure ground for the poor and so began the pleasant area of homes parklands and riverfront paths we know today American River Watershed, California United States.
