Sacred Ritual, Profane Space Jenn Cianca, 2018-05-23 The first three centuries of Christianity are increasingly seen in modern scholarship as sites of complexity Sacred Ritual Profane Space examines the Christian meeting places of the time and overturns long held notions about the earliest Christians as utopian rather than place bound people By mapping what is known from early Christian texts onto the archaeological data for Roman domestic spaces Jenn Cianca provides a new lens for examining the relationship between early Christianity and sites of worship She proposes that not only were Roman homes sacred sites in their own right but they were also considered sacred by the Christian communities that used them In many cases meeting space would have included the presence of the Roman domestic cult shrines Despite the fact that the domestic cult was polytheistic Cianca asserts that its practices likely continued in places used for worship by Christians She also argues that continued practice of the domestic cult in Roman domestic spaces did not preclude Christians from using houses as churches or from understanding their rituals or their meeting places as sacred Raising a host of questions about identity ritual affiliation and domestic practice Sacred Ritual Profane Space demonstrates how sacred space was constructed through ritual enactment in early Christian communities crosscultural and interdisciplinary perspectives to add to the value of the work Dynamics of Islam in the Modern World Saeed Zarrabi-Zadeh, Armina Omerika, Thomas K. Gugler, Michael E. Asbury, 2022-07-11 Dynamics of Islam in the Modern World scrutinizes and analyzes Islam in context. It posits Muslims not as independent and autonomous but as relational and interactive agents of change and continuity who interplay with Islamic and sources of self and society as well as with resources from other traditions. Representing multiple disciplinary approaches, the contributors to this volume discuss a broad range of issues such as secularization, colonialism, globalization, radicalism, human rights, migration, hermeneutics, mysticism, religious normativity, and pluralism, while paying special attention to three geographical settings: South Asia, the Middle East, and Euro America. New Roots in America's Sacred Ground Khyati Y. Joshi, 2006 In this compelling look at second generation Indian Americans, Khyati Y. Joshi draws on case studies and interviews with forty-one second generation Indian Americans, analyzing their experiences involving religion, race, and ethnicity from elementary school to adulthood. As she maps the crossroads they encounter as they navigate between their homes and the wider American milieu, Joshi shows how their identities have developed differently from their parents and their non-Indian peers, and how religion often exerted a dramatic effect. The experiences of Joshi's research participants reveal how race and religion interact, intersect, and affect each other in a society where Christianity and whiteness are the norm. Joshi shows how religion is racialized for Indian Americans and offers important insights in the wake of 9/11 and the backlash against Americans who look Middle Eastern and South Asian. Through her candid insights into the internal conflicts contemporary Indian Americans face and the religious and racial discrimination they encounter, Joshi provides a timely window into the ways that race, religion, and ethnicity interact in day-to-day life. Sacred Rituals at Home Jane Alexander, 2000-12-31 Are you ready to cleanse, purify, change, and cure your body and spirit?
