The Listener Taylor Caldwell, Anguished souls are drawn to a sanctuary inscribed with the words The Man Who Listens All those who come to unburden their cares in his presence find peace hope and happiness from the unknown one who sits and listens

Race & Class on Campus Jay Rochlin, 1997 Racism Is it alive and well and living on college campuses across the United States Is it a factor in high dropout rates and other crises affecting minority college students and if so how Are controversial programs of affirmative action proving to be a solution or are they part of the problem Here are some insights into the hot issues sparking debate over equal opportunity and American education In these pages through the use of a fictional character author Jay Rochlin presents more than forty very real African American and Mexican American men and women who struggled to earn degrees at a large nationally recognized university in the west Their goals their gains and their disappointments echo the experiences of millions of others around the country during much of the twentieth century Perhaps most important their true stories will provide inspiration to the many young people who wonder whether pursuing the dream of a college education is possible for them Readers will warm to the words of Carlos V ez Ib ez learning as a toddler from his father that the university represented toda la sabidur a del mundo all the wisdom in the world Their hearts will go out to young Laura Banks barred as a black woman from a whites only pool and the swimming class required for her degree in physical education In the face of open hostility and closed doors these students and many others persevered When they were shunned by Anglo social clubs they created their own When they were assigned back of the room seating because of discrimination they rose above it And when their ultimate goal graduation was threatened by racism they fought it Looking back many in the book remember coming from poor families who nonetheless considered themselves middle class and as such simply expected their children to go to college This family support bolstered by the students own drive ambition and sense of responsibility seemed to be pivotal to their success Thus the book comes out strongly on the side of critical race theorists who emphasize individual effort as a means of combating racism and personal narratives as a way of analyzing the complex issue These pages are filled with the voices of everyday men and women Their language is straightforward and from the heart Their message is timely in the midst of current debates over race class and affirmative action And their words for American education and for the country as a whole carry force and meaning guaranteed to reach far into the future

Education in Movement Spaces Alayna Eagle Shield,Django Paris,Rae Paris,Timothy San Pedro,2020-03-12 This book amplifies the distinct intersecting and coalitional possibilities of education in the spaces of ongoing movements for Native and Black liberation Contributors highlight the importance of activist oriented teaching and learning in community encampments and other movement spaces for the preservation and expansion of resistance education With chapters from scholars educators and organizers this volume offers lessons taken from these experiences for nation state schools classrooms and spaces of teaching and learning that are most commonly experienced by Native and Black children and educators Through attention to recent social movements across the United States from Standing Rock to Black Lives Matter this book demonstrates the vital connections between Native and Black communities educational futures

Both Sides of Grace Angela Clark Logan,2022-10-05 Marci has always been most comfortable with life when she has a good set of rules to follow Most people who know her well have learned to love her in spite of her legalistic approach to everything from faith to relationships Now Marci is a divorced mother of three Her life is falling apart and she is beginning to question all of her strict rules Sometimes rules just don t work and Marci sees the role they played in the disintegration of her marriage Her strict conformity to what she believes are the rules of faith and relationships have prevented her from experiencing the true happiness and peace God wants her to have When Marci learns the hard way that life isn t always black and white she discovers something even better grace Before she can learn to give grace to the people around her she must first learn to receive God s grace for herself As she learns to allow God to guide her she finds happiness renewed relationships and a faith stronger than ever before
