

EDUCATIONAL PSYCH REV 1

William James (1842–1910). James argued that laboratory psychology experiments often cannot tell us how to effectively teach children. He emphasized the importance of observing teaching and learning in classrooms for improving education.

2. John Dewey (1859–1952). We owe many important ideas to John Dewey. First, we owe to him the view of the child as an active learner. Dewey (1933) argued that children learn best by doing. Second, we owe to Dewey the idea that education should focus on the whole child and emphasize the child's adaptation to the environment. Dewey reasoned that children should not be just narrowly educated in academic topics but should learn how to think and adapt to a world outside school. He especially thought that children should learn how to be reflective problem solvers. Third, we owe to Dewey the belief that all children deserve to have a competent education.

3. E. L. Thorndike (1874–1949). Thorndike focused on assessment and measurement and promoted the scientific underpinnings of learning. Thorndike argued that one of schooling's most important tasks is to hone children's reasoning skills, and he excelled at doing exacting scientific studies of teaching and learning. Thorndike especially promoted the idea that educational psychology must have a scientific base and should focus strongly on measurement.

4. The Behavioral Approach. In American psychology, B. F. Skinner's (1938) view, which built on Thorndike's ideas, strongly influenced educational psychology in the middle of the century. Skinner's behavioral approach, which he defined as the science of observable behavior and its controlling conditions.

5. The Cognitive Revolution. Benjamin Bloom created a taxonomy of cognitive skills that included remembering, comprehending, synthesizing, and evaluating, which he suggested teachers should help students develop. The cognitive revolution in psychology began to take hold by the 1980s and ushered in a great deal of enthusiasm for applying the concepts of cognitive psychology—memory, thinking, reasoning, and so on—to helping students learn.

EFFECTIVE TEACHING

PROFESSIONAL KNOWLEDGE AND SKILLS. Effective teachers' knowledge and skills are composed of instructional strategies supported by methods of goal setting, instructional planning, and classroom management. In addition, they understand how to motivate students and how to communicate and work effectively.

- a. Subject-Matter Competence. Knowledge of subject matter includes more than just facts, terms, and general concepts. It also includes knowledge about organizing ideas, connections among ideas, ways of thinking and arguing, patterns of change within a discipline, beliefs about a discipline, and the ability to carry ideas from one discipline to another.
- b. Instructional Strategies. two major approaches characterize how teachers teach:
  - i. constructivist approach. A learner-centered approach to learning that emphasizes the importance of individuals actively constructing knowledge and understanding with guidance from the teacher.
  - ii. direct instruction approach. A structured, teacher-centered approach characterized by teacher direction and control, high teacher expectations for

It offers a broad depiction of how inequality and injustice are reproduced, resisted, and transformed in our daily life together. The chapters produce a forensic analysis of how participants enact discriminatory ideologies, negotiate systemic power imbalances, and pursue social change in and through the nuances of their interactions. The authors draw on audio and video recordings of interaction in a wide range of social settings ranging from classrooms to family dinners and political town halls to television sitcoms. The book demonstrates the power of conversation analysis to tackle issues of social justice and equality and launches critical conversation analysis as a distinct empirical program dedicated to systematically investigating and promoting inclusion and equity in the minute details of everyday interaction.

Effective Alternative Assessment Practices in Higher Education Antione D. Tomlin, Christine M. Nowik, 2024-03-01 COVID-19 and increased attention to how institutions of higher education (IHEs) serve an increasingly diverse student population have brought conversations about standard practices from the margins to the center as faculty explore how to improve learning and student success for all students. Historically, IHEs were built by a privileged class for a privileged class, a system and structure built on specific epistemologies, practices, and habits of mind and language that replicate privilege and leave many students underserved in their academic pursuits. One way faculty have increased equity in their college classrooms is through the use of alternative assessment practices. This volume aims to share the experiences of faculty who have leveraged non-traditional grading paradigms for the sake of increasing student learning, a sense of belonging, and equity in their classrooms. Meant to orient faculty who are considering how to implement alt assessment in their own classes as well as those who are already employing various grading frameworks, this volume will celebrate new and innovative approaches, share lessons learned, and invite a broader coalition of faculty into the stream of conversation about pedagogical innovation. Faculty educators and practitioners share their approaches to alternate assessment in this volume as well as the critiques, lessons, and outcomes associated with their pedagogical decisions. Written by practitioners for practitioners, we hope the book will provide theoretical and practical guidance for alternative assessment practices such as ungrading, contract grading, standards-based grading, and labor-based grading across various disciplines and within different academic contexts.
