Bloom,2019-07-09 Revised and updated the award winning historical analysis of the civil rights movement examining the interplay of race and class in the American South In Race Class and the Civil Rights Movement sociologist Jack M Bloom explains what the civil rights movement was about why it was successful and why it fell short of some of its objectives With a unique sociohistorical analysis he argues that Southern racist practices were established by the agrarian upper class and that only when this class system was undermined did the civil rights movement became possible He also demonstrates how the movement was the culmination of political struggles beginning in the Reconstruction era and influenced by the New Deal policies of the 1930s Widely praise when it was first published 1987 Race Class and the Civil Rights Movement was a C Wright Mills Second Award winning book and also won the Gustavus Myers Center Outstanding Book Award In this second edition Bloom updates his study in light of current scholarship on civil rights history He also presents an analysis of the New Right within the Republican Party starting in the 1960s as a reaction to the civil rights movement      Family Life and School Achievement Reginald M. Clark,2015-07-31 Working mothers broken homes poverty racial or ethnic background poorly educated parents these are the usual reasons given for the academic problems of poor urban children Reginald M Clark contends however that such structural characteristics of families neither predict nor explain the wide variation in academic achievement among children He emphasizes instead the total family life stating that the most important indicators of academic potential are embedded in family culture To support his contentions Clark offers ten intimate portraits of Black families in Chicago Visiting the homes of poor one and two parent families of high and low achievers Clark made detailed observations on the quality of home life noting how family habits and interactions affect school success and what characteristics of family life provide children with school survival skills a complex of behaviors attitudes and knowledge that are the essential elements in academic success Clark s conclusions lead to exciting implications for educational policy If school achievement is not dependent on family structure or income parents can learn to inculcate school survival skills in their children Clark offers specific suggestions and strategies for use by teachers parents school administrators and social service policy makers but his work will also find an audience in urban anthropology family studies and Black studies      Fifty Years of Anthropology and Education 1950-2000 George and Loui Spindler,2000-06 Brings together seminal articles by the Spindlers widely regarded as the founders of educational anthropology and binds them together with a master commentary by George Spindler Presents a unified view of the Spindlers work development of the field      Ethnography David M.
