Summary ,1912 A Physician Faces Cancer in Himself Samuel Sanes, M.D.,2015-07-29 This is a frank and honest narrative of a personal experience with a serious disease written by a physician who died of the disease soon after finishing his book He applies his personal knowledge to his experience as a patient in a manner which clarifies many aspects of cancer for both lay persons and physicians The book is about dying of cancer but it is primarily about relationships At the center is the relationship of physician family and friends to the patient Throughout Dr Sanes admonishes readers to consider the person who has the disease first and not the disease process itself independently of the person The relationship between the physician and the patient s family is treated in depth providing concrete guidelines for communication Dr Sanes shows us unsuspected ramifications of these relationships and provides insight into the personal side of malignant disease for physicians patients and families The Medical World ,1898 The Columbus Medical Journal ,1908 Physician's studies of medical racism examine past medical abuses of black people and do not address the racially motivated thinking and behaviors of physicians practicing medicine today Black Blue penetrates the physician s private sphere where racial fantasies and misinformation distort diagnoses and treatments Doctors have always absorbed the racial stereotypes and folkloric beliefs about racial differences that permeate the general population Within the world of medicine this racial folklore has infiltrated all of the medical sub disciplines from cardiology to gynecology to psychiatry Doctors have thus imposed white or black racial identities upon every organ system of the human body along with racial interpretations of black children the black elderly the black athlete black musicality black pain thresholds and other aspects of black minds and bodies The American medical establishment does not readily absorb either historical or current information about medical racism For this reason racial enlightenment will not reach medical schools until the current race aversive curricula include new historical and sociological perspectives The Medical Fortnightly ,1905 Western Medical Review ,1912
