Emotions, Decision-Making and Mass Atrocities Olaoluwa Olusanya, 2016-05-06 This book rehumanizes perpetrators of mass atrocities At present a victim perpetrator dichotomy appears to be the dominant paradigm perpetrators have either been mechanistically dehumanized that is perceived as unemotional hard hearted and conforming and thereby lacking the core features of human nature or alternatively they have been animalistically dehumanized In other words they are seen as immoral unintelligent lacking self control and likened to animals Within sociology and criminology the dominant view is that genocide and other mass atrocities are committed by technologically lobotomized perpetrators. Somehow the process of rationalization is believed to have transformed these people from emotionally healthy people into hollow soulless shells of human beings or zombies devoid of a full range of normal emotions. These people are considered bereft of any ability to reason, think, or feel yet ambulant and able to respond to surrounding stimuli. However, it is difficult to imagine crime, especially those involving a group of people working together for the duration of a particular criminal activity, without emotions. For instance, there is ample evidence suggesting that both crimes of passion and premeditated crimes involve emotional arousal. Furthermore, research in fields such as evolutionary biology, psychology, and sociology of work and organizations suggest that emotions are essential for human progress and survival. In addition, emotions help us make the right call in risky and uncertain situations; in other words, the majority of real-life situations. There is therefore a need to revisit existing assumptions around the role of emotions in mass atrocities.

Readings on the Sociology of the Family Bert N. Adams, Thomas Weirath, 1971

Organizational Behavior John B. Miner, 2002. The book begins with a treatment of the role of science and the nature of theory and research. A discussion of the early origins and history of organizational behavior follows. This is the most comprehensive coverage of how organizational behavior emerged and grew. It presents and evaluates the first generation theorists whose work began during the first 20 years. The subject matter covered is motivation, leadership, and organizational decision making. The institutional culture of organizational behavior is discussed, and a vision for the future of the field is stated. Here, the early history and the evidence from the theories are brought together in an effort to assess the identity of organizational behavior and where it might be headed.

The Psychology of Marriage Carol Cronin Weisfeld, Glenn E. Weisfeld, Lisa M. Dillon, 2017-11-17. From their location in the heart of Detroit, Michigan, the Weisfelds' lab has reached out for thirty years to couples in long-term partnerships around the world. In living rooms in Detroit, London, Moscow, Beijing, and beyond, couples of all types and ages have shared their perspectives on adult romantic relationships. The Psychology of Marriage: An Evolutionary and Cross-Cultural View is a distillation of these findings, which have appeared in dozens of book chapters, journal articles, and conference presentations. This book provides new systematic comparisons that offer insights into the mysteries of marriage and other committed relationships. Scholars, professional counselors, and family therapists will find a helpful framework in the text for thinking about cultural similarities and differences in marital dynamics. Researchers will be introduced to a robust new instrument, the Marriage and Relationship Questionnaire (MARQ), which can be used in heterosexual and same-sex couples in virtually any cultural setting, along with ethical guidelines for conducting this research. Anyone who is interested in why committed relationships work or do not work will find the book filled with compelling new information.
