

An illustration of three stylized figures in a discussion. A person on the left points upwards, a person in the center holds a heart, and a person on the right gestures with an open hand. Abstract shapes like a red heart, a blue oval, and a grey rounded rectangle with purple lines are connected by wavy lines. Small decorative elements like plus signs and squiggles are scattered around. The background is a solid grey.

Dynamics and Terminology Rita Temmerman, Marc Van Campenhoudt, 2014-12-15 The urge to understand all aspects of human experience more and better seems to be one of the motives underlying cognitive development in many domains of human existence Understanding more and better is at the basis of knowledge creation and extension One way of getting access to how understanding comes about and how knowledge is the result of a continuous dynamics of understanding and misunderstanding is by studying the cognitive potential and the development of natural language s and more particularly of terminology in specialized domains In this volume on dynamics and terminology thirteen contributors illustrate that human cognition is a dynamic process in a variety of socio cognitive and cultural settings The case studies encompass a panoply of methodologies and deal with subjects ranging from the dynamics of legal understanding in multilingual Europe over financial economic and scientific terminology in several cultural and linguistic settings to language policy issues in multilingual environments All thirteen contributors link the dynamics of cognition to the creative potential of language as a repository of past and present experience in cultural settings and to the creation of neologisms in domain specific languages Attention is given to the functionality of indeterminacy vagueness polysemy ambiguity synonymy metaphor and phraseology In this volume terminology is researched and discussed from an interdisciplinary perspective combining insights developed over the last decades in communicative terminology socio terminology socio cognitive terminology cultural terminology with tools and methods from cognitive linguistics corpus linguistics sociolinguistics frame semantics semiotics knowledge engineering and statistics Glossary for the Worldwide Transportation of Dangerous Goods and Hazardous Materials Malcolm A. Fox, 2013-11-21 Worldwide 500 000 shipments of materials which pose chemical physical or biological risks to human health property or the environment are made each day by air rail road sea and inland waterways totaling over 3 6 billion metric tons each year To ensure safety during transportation the 2 means by which these dangerous goods and hazardous materials are packaged and handled is prescribed by international authority including the United Nations the International Maritime Organization the International Atomic Energy Agency the International Civil Aviation Organization and the International Air Transport Association as well as national authorities such as the Department of Transportation in the United States In fact the United Nations establishes model regulations that function as recommendations addressed to international organizations and national governments At the core of regulation lies hazard identification once accurately identified the hazards of dangerous goods may be communicated and the material safely packaged segregated transported and handled by qualified personnel

Incorrectly identified materials increase greatly the risk of explosion fire poisoning or some other mishap To aid identification each authority maintains a list of the articles substances and materials it regulates comprising thousands of entries including chemical names industry specific terms trade names generic descriptions and other specialized terms common to the language of transportation While much of this language is recognizable some is less well understood even to transportation environmental and health professionals
