Rose Army,2002-04 Energy ,1980 Energy Abstracts for Policy Analysis ,1979 A review of illegal, unreported and unregulated fishing issues and progress in the Asia-Pacific Fishery Commission region Wilcox, C., Mann, V., Cannard, T., Ford, J., Hoshino, E., Pascoe, S.,2021-03-31 Illegal unreported and unregulated IUU fishing constitutes a persistent and pressing problem estimated to account for up to US 23 billion annually in the APFIC area The effects of IUU fishing can be severe particularly for small island and coastal developing states heavily dependent on fisheries and include adverse impacts on peoples livelihoods food security national economies and the environment Countries unable to fulfil international obligations for fisheries management and governance risk incurring trade sanctions on their fisheries exports an increasing issue as export markets tighten their permitting Furthermore IUU fishing is increasingly associated with national and transnational organised criminal activities although the evidence remains mixed FAO commissioned this report two years ago to produce an independent update to an unpublished 2015 study on IUU fishing in the APFIC area of competence which was presented to the APFIC as an information paper in 2016 FAO 2016a The 2015 study used a mixture of media reports literature review and interviews to build a picture of hotspots of illegal fishing across the APFIC area of competence This report builds on the previous work incorporating additional analysis methods to predict illegal fishing in a transparent manner Based on discussions with the APFIC Secretariat it was decided to limit the study to the illegal component of IUU fishing A key difference with the 2015 study is the extension of the estimation of illegal fishing from the 33 hotspots covered in the 2015 study to the entire APFIC area of competence in this study This report provides the following key outputs i development and implementation of an agreed methodology for estimating illegal fishing levels and progress ii information from case studies in three Asia Pacific countries and iii analysis of results from the agreed method estimating the incidence of illegal fishing and implication of efforts to reduce it The approach taken to achieve these goals included a structured online survey of fisheries officials in APFIC countries semi structured interviews of key informants knowledgeable about illegal fishing in the APFIC region and analysis of articles on illegal fishing from public media data across the APFIC area of competence

Plants' Responses to Novel Environmental Pressures Alessio Fini, Massimiliano Tattini, Raquel Esteban, 2018-02-01 Plants have been exposed to multiple environmental stressors on long term seasonal and short term daily basis since their appearance on land However the frequency and the intensity of stress events have increased much during the last three decades because of climate change Plants have developed however a multiplicity of modular and highly integrated strategies to cope with challenges imposed by novel usually harsher environments These strategies include migration acclimation and adaptation Twelve articles in this research topic exactly focus on the relative significance of these response mechanisms for the successful acclimation of plants to a wide range of novel environmental pressures Four articles additionally explore how plants respond to severe stress conditions resulting from the concurrent action of multiple stressors Ten articles mostly examine how morpho anatomical physiological and biochemical related traits integrate when plants suffer from novel threats such as solid gaseous and electromagnetic pollutants Suitable physiological indicators for developing conservation strategies are described in the last two works This research topic highlights that bottom up as well as top down approaches will be necessary to develop in near future in the study of plants responses to environmental pressures

Concepts of Capital Jacek Tittenbrun, 2017-07-05 Borrowing terminology from the economic discipline specifically the concept of capital has led to an abundance of new terms in the social sciences human capital social capital and cultural capital to name the most prominent representatives on an ever growing list In this interdisciplinary transaction the concept is borrowed and the original meaning extended until the new concepts often have nothing left in common with their initial referents Here Jacek Tittenbrun offers a critical analysis of human social and cultural capital on the basis of their uses and misuses across a wide range of social sciences simultaneously revealing the source of conceptual diffusion in the real world He presents a two pronged analysis of an intellectual fashion popular in the social sciences and offers a critical analysis of a range of concepts constructed around the common core of capital The analysis is innovative as it is underpinned by a theoretical framework rooted in economic sociology and the concept of ownership in particular The approach is one of the sociology of knowledge coupled with a substantive critique application of the given concepts The volume reveals a range of processes in the real world that account for the conceptual diffusion The general reader will be drawn to the discussion in the second half of the book a study of a variety of relatable real life situations that illuminate privatization and commodification in our lives
