Bend in the Road Barbara A. Robinson, 2015-08-07 There is no blueprint for grieving There are not any steps directions or instructions to understanding our pain There are no words of wisdom that can change our situation and no medicine to heal the wound left when our heart breaks I cannot give you any advice or a recipe on how to grieve nor tell you how long to grieve how you should feel or what actions to take to cope with your pain I can only say that God does not make mistakes I can also share with you my experiences my journey my faith and my glory dance steps of life Your season of being with the love of your life who has gone on to glory is over Accept that and don't put a question mark where God has put a period I can only tell you what God did to heal my pain and what He did for me He will do for you This life He gave me is a present and each day I wake up is me unwrapping that gift If I hold a pity party rather than trying to discover what God would have me do it sends a message to God that I do not appreciate His gift. Life's road bends, twists, goes up hills, into valleys, streams, rivers, over mountains, into pot holes and around curves. Around the next bend may be heartache or happiness, pain or pleasure, sunshine or rain. Regardless of what lies around the next bend, God is always there waiting with outstretched arms to either catch you if you fall or teach you how to fly. When you get to the end of your rope, hand it to God. He will tie it around your waist and help you stand.

Washington Tom Lewis, 2015-10-13. On January 24, 1791, President George Washington chose the site for the young nation's capital, ten miles square, it stretched from the highest point of navigation on the Potomac River and encompassed the ports of Georgetown and Alexandria. From the moment the federal government moved to the District of Columbia in December 1800, Washington has been central to American identity and life. Shaped by politics and intrigue, poverty and largess, contradictions and compromises, Washington has been from its beginnings the stage on which our national dramas have played out. In Washington, the historian Tom Lewis paints a sweeping portrait of the capital city whose internal conflicts and promise have mirrored those of America writ large. Breathing life into the men and women who struggled to help the city realize its full potential, he introduces us to the mercurial French artist who created an ornate plan for the city, en grande members of the nearly forgotten anti-Catholic political party who halted construction of the Washington monument for a quarter century, and the cadre of congressmen who maintained segregation and blocked the city's progress for decades. In the twentieth century, Washington's Mall and streets would witness a Ku Klux Klan march, the violent end to the encampment of World War I Bonus Army veterans, the 1963 March on Washington for Jobs and Freedom, and the painful rebuilding of the city in the wake of Martin Luther King Jr.'s assassination. It is our national center. Frederick Douglass once said of Washington, DC, it belongs to us, and whether it is mean or majestic, whether arrayed in glory or covered in shame, we cannot but share its character and its destiny. Interweaving the story of the city's physical transformation with a nuanced account of its political, economic, and social evolution, Lewis tells the powerful history of Washington, DC, the site of our nation's highest ideals and some of our deepest failures.

Murder in the Heartland Harry Spiller, 2003. For 16 years, Harry Spiller worked as a deputy sheriff, investigator, and sheriff in a place where murder isn't supposed to happen. Southern Illinois Investigating murder cases mainly in Williamson County and assisting in other counties, he learned the hard reality that murder is all around us. The act is swift for the victim and can happen to anyone anywhere at any time. It doesn't matter if you live in a big city or a small county with brick-front towns, small farms, white church houses, lakes and ponds, the Shawnee National Forest, and the muddy rivers. All too often, victims fall prey in places that we think are safe to raise our families, places where we take walks on hot summer nights where our children play in the park without concern, where we fish in the local pond hoping to land the big one, and where we leave our doors unlocked at night. In this book, Murder in the Heartland, there are 20 case files.
