Dutch Paintings in the Metropolitan Museum of Art Walter A. Liedtke, Metropolitan Museum of Art (New York, N.Y.), 2007 Presents a catalog that surveys the Dutch paintings found in the Metropolitan Museum of Art The Routledge Companion to Expressionism in a Transnational Context Isabel Wünsche, 2018-09-03 The Routledge Companion to Expressionism in a Transnational Context is a challenging exploration of the transnational formation dissemination and transformation of expressionism outside of the German speaking world in regions such as Central and Eastern Europe the Baltics and Scandinavia Western and Southern Europe North and Latin America and South Africa in the first half of the twentieth century Comprising a series of essays by an international group of scholars in the fields of art history and literary and cultural studies the volume addresses the intellectual discussions and artistic developments arising in the context of the expressionist movement in the various art centers and cultural regions The authors also examine the implications of expressionism in artistic practice and its influence on modern and contemporary cultural production. Essential for an in depth understanding and discussion of expressionism, this volume opens up new perspectives on developments in the visual arts of this period and challenges the traditional narratives that have predominantly focused on artistic styles and national movements.

Finding Caspicara Susan Verdi Webster, 2024. Caspicara was the most renowned sculptor of the eighteenth century Andean world. Yet many works that are attributed to this Indigenous artist cannot be firmly documented as he is nearly absent in traditional archival records. Susan Webster seeks to analyze not only the visual imagery and material culture of his many works but she also seeks to lay the foundation for understanding how scholars can revive the life and records of artists and other historical figures, many of whom were Indigenous in this period with different methodologies. By cultivating artistic theory, popular religious devotion, and specific styles of sculpture, Webster's examination of the labor and workshop practices of this period contextualize the extensive commercial networks that existed within Quito and emanated beyond it. Webster explores the reason why authors constructed an almost completely fictional life story and canon for this artist that continued for two centuries, how this story fueled the agendas and goals of these authors in melding the colonial past with a newly independent country that could measure itself against western European culture and as a potent story for tourists. She then considers the ways in which Caspicara's work was at the center of debates of sculpture versus painting in Quito. These debates and their development in the city also add context to notions of authorship and how it was documented or not. By exploring the professional world where he worked, Webster's analysis of Indigenous sculptors and their family networks of labor and apprenticeship in the arts allow us to understand the changing workforce and materials for sculptures. This analysis also reveals what day to day life may have been for Caspicara and how this routine informed the artistic choices available to him. Archival materials indirectly offer glimpses into how patrons regarded Caspicara and his work and how the work of others later embellished or altered his original vision. Throughout the chapters, visuality, materials, and reception challenge the typical obsession of art historians, museum curators, and auction houses in their hunger to attribute authorship in ways that increase the value both for prestige and monetary reasons and in ways that end up obscuring authorship and intent.

Chilean painting, two hundred years Ricardo Binds, 2006.
