Maria Giaoutzi, 2017-05-15 Tourist visits used to be a less common activity in the past However more people than ever now make leisure trips making this an era of mass tourism This drastic change in spatial behaviour is not only caused by economic prosperity but the scale of this phenomenon means that it is able to generate economic growth making tourism a key factor in regional development policy One of the main challenges of current regional policy is to market the attractiveness of an area thereby increasing tourist visits and subsequent revenue In particular regions are attempting this through the use of Information and Communication Technologies ICT which offer information on interesting places and efficient methods for organizing and booking trips This book examines the interconnections between tourism ICT and regional development Bringing together a range of European case studies illustrating various ICT and policy innovations it not only critiques current activity by regions in terms of tourism development but also considers how this sector is likely to continue to grow Coastal Mass Tourism Bill Bramwell, 2004-02-05 The Mediterranean coastal regions of Southern Europe have long been world leaders in mass tourism This book examines some key questions for tourism development in these areas with implications for similar regions across the world The standardised forms of mass tourism are diversifying with more specialised forms notably those based on nature culture and heritage and those catering for special interests There is a growing spectrum of modes of tourism with an emphasis on variety flexibility and permeability Both mass tourism and the more diversified forms substantially impact on sustainable development Policies promoting sustainable development are often of two main types developing smaller scale alternative tourism products that are intended to be less damaging to the environment and society and secondly attempts to make mass tourism coastal resorts more sustainable But there has been little critical assessment of these policies either evaluating their basic assumptions or their successes and failures in practice This edited book critically examines these issues for varied coastal regions in Southern Europe including case studies from Spain Croatia Turkey and north and south Cyprus The Global Political Economy of the Environment and Tourism

Cultures of Mass Tourism Pau Obrador Pons, 2016-05-13 With more than 230 million international tourists a year the Mediterranean region is the largest tourist destination in the world This book outlines that its economic importance is matched by its significance as a cultural and aesthetic phenomenon Through a series of ethnographic insights into some of the key sites of mass Mediterranean tourism it focuses on package tourists experiences of the serial banal and depthless spaces that are mushrooming along the coast and the enchantments dissolutions and dreams that saturate them Moving away from the notion of authentic places corrupted by mass tourism the book shows how new forms and spaces are made and remade by the mobilities and performances of locals workers and tourists Finally the book looks at the complex materialities of mass tourism and the many networks that make it possible
