Roman House:

Living Theatre in the Ancient Roman House Richard C. Beacham, Hugh Denard, 2023-01-12 For the Romans much of life was seen expressed and experienced as a form of theatre In their homes patrons performed the lead with a supporting cast of residents and visitors This sumptuously illustrated book the result of extensive interdisciplinary research is the first to investigate describe and show how ancient Roman houses and villas in their domestic spaces activities and function could constitute highly theatricalised environments indeed a sort of living theatre Their layout purpose and use reflected and informed a culture in which theatre was both a major medium of entertainment and communication and an art form drawing upon myths exploring the core values and beliefs of society For elite Romans their homes as veritable stage sets served as visible and tangible expressions of their owners prestige importance and achievements The Roman home was a carefully crafted realm in which patrons displayed themselves while stage managing the behaviour and responses of visitor spectators

The Roman House in Britain Dominic Perring, 2002-09-11 This authoritative and original work sets the results of recent archaeological research in the context of classical scholarship as it explores three main aspects of Romano British buildings general characteristics of form and structure the ways in which they were built and decorated the range of activities for which they were designed This evidence is then used to discuss the social practices and domestic arrangements that characterised Romano British elite society Fully illustrated this volume is the essential guide to how houses were built used and understood in Roman Britain

Life in Roman Empire Stanford Mc Krause, 1951 At its peak the population of the city of Rome probably exceeded one million However the Roman Empire was an agricultural society where most people made a living from farming although there were many artisans Only a small minority of the population lived in cities There were basically two types of people citizens and non citizens Roman citizens had certain privileges In 212 AD all free people in the Roman Empire became citizens Edict of Caracalla A Dictionary of Greek and Roman Antiquities Charles Athon, 1843 Patriarchy, Property and Death in the Roman Family Richard P. Saller, 1994 This innovative study of the patriarchy belies the accepted notion of the father figure as tyrannical and exploitative Housing the New Romans Katharine T. von Stackelberg, Elizabeth Macaulay-Lewis, 2017 In the last twenty years reception studies have significantly enhanced our understanding of the ways in which Classics has shaped modern Western culture but very little attention has been directed toward the reception of classical architecture. Housing the New Romans: Architectural Reception and Classical Style in the Modern World addresses this gap by investigating ways in which appropriation and allusion facilitated the reception of Classical Greece and Rome through the requisition and redeployment of classicizing tropes to create neo-Antique sites of dwelling in the 19th and early 20th centuries. The volume across nine essays will cover both European and American iterations of place making including Sir John Soanes house in London, the Hôtel de Beauharnais in Paris and the Getty Villa in California. By focusing on structures and places that are oriented towards private life—houses, hotels, clubs, tombs and gardens—the volume directs the critical gaze towards diverse and complex sites of curatorial self-fashioning. The goal of the volume is to provide a multiplicity of interpretative frameworks, e.g. object agency, enchantment, hyperreality, memory, infrastructure, that may be applied to the study of architectural reception. This critical approach makes Housing the New Romans the first work of its kind in the emerging field of architectural and landscape reception studies and in the hitherto textually dominated field of classical reception.

Roman Art in the Private Sphere Elaine K. Gazda, Anne E. Haeckl, 1991. This is a stimulating book and should be compulsory reading for all students of Roman art. Classical Review. For all the authors' attention to the ensemble, a sense of the relation between the formal and the iconographic and the desire to historicize their material contribute to making this anthology unusual in its rigorous and creative attention to the way that art and architecture participate in the construction of the image of the Roman elite. Art Bulletin. Roman Art in the Private Sphere presents an impressive case for the social and art historical importance of the paintings, mosaics and sculptures that filled the private houses of the Roman elite. The six essays in this volume range from the first century B.C.E. to the fourth century C.E. and from the Italian peninsula to the Eastern Empire and North African provinces. The essays treat works of art that belonged to every major Roman housing type: the single-family atrium houses and the insula (apartment blocks) in Italian cities; the dramatically sited villas of the Campanian coast and countryside; and the palatial mansions of late antique provincial aristocrats. In a complementary fashion, the essays consider domestic art in relation to questions of decorum, status, wealth, social privilege and obligation. Patrons emerge as actively interested in the character of their surroundings; artists appear as responsive to the desire of their patrons. The evidence in private art of homosexual conduct in high society is also set forth. Originality of subject matter, sophisticated appreciation of stylistic and compositional nuance and philosophical perceptions of the relationship of humanity and nature are among the themes that the essays explore. Together they demonstrate that Roman domestic art must be viewed on its own terms. Elaine K. Gazda is Professor of the History of Art and Curator of Hellenistic and Roman Antiquities at the Kelsey Museum of Archaeology, University of Michigan.

Fores et Fenestrae: A Computational Study of Doors and Windows in Roman Domestic Space Lucia Michielin, 2021-06-10. The role doors and windows play in shaping the life and structure of Roman private dwellings has been underestimated; they are structures that connect not only rooms but houses to the outside.

world and they relate to privacy security and light in domestic spaces This volume analyses these structures as an essential part of daily life A Dictionary of Greek and Roman Antiquities William Smith,1842 Gallus; Or, Roman Scenes of the Time of Augustus Wilhelm Adolf Becker,1844 The Houses Bradley A. Ault,2005 This is an exploration of the organization and contents of five houses at Halieis It is based on the structure of each house and its contents and includes detailed room by room analyses of the excavated finds
