Benjamin Reilly, 2022-02-10 During the last 1500 years Rome was the inspiration of artists the coronation stage of German emperors the distant desire of pilgrims and the seat of the Roman popes Yet Rome also lies within the northern range of Plasmodium falciparum malaria the deadliest strain of the disease against which northern Europeans had no intrinsic or acquired defenses As a result Rome lured a countless number of unacclimated transalpine Europeans to their deaths in the period from 500 to 1850 AD This book examines how Rome's allure to European visitors and its resident malaria species impacted the historical development of Europe It covers the environmental and biological factors at play and focuses on two of the periods when malaria potentially had the greatest impact on the continent the heyday of the medieval German Empire and its conflicts with the papacy c 800 1300 and the Protestant Reformation c 1500 Through explorations into the history of religion empire disease and culture this book tells the story of how the veritable capital of the world became the graveyard of nations
