the towering figure of the poet Nez mi Ganjavi The final chapter takes the reader to a wider landscape tracing the footsteps of Alexander across the globe offering insights to the cultural preoccupations refracted in so many versions past and present

The Oxford History of Literary Translation in English: Peter France, Kenneth Haynes, 2006-02-23 In the one hundred and ten years covered by volume four of The Oxford History of Literary Translation in English what characterized translation was above all the move to encompass what Goethe called world literature This occurred paradoxically at a time when English literature is often seen as increasingly self sufficient In Europe the culture of Germany was a new source of inspiration as were the medieval literatures and the popular ballads of many lands from Spain to Serbia From the mid century the other literatures of the North both ancient and modern were extensively translated and the last third of the century saw the beginning of the Russian vogue Meanwhile as the British presence in the East was consolidated translation helped readers to take possession of exotic non European cultures from Persian and Arabic to Sanskrit and Chinese The thirty five contributors bring an enormous range of expertise to the exploration of these new developments and of the fascinating debates which reopened old questions about the translator s task as the new literalism whether scholarly or experimental vied with established modes of translation The complex story unfolds in Britain and its empire but also in the United States involving not just translators publishers and readers but also institutions such as the universities and the periodical press Nineteenth century English literature emerges as more open to the foreign than has been recognized before with far reaching effects on its orientation

Islamic Visual Culture, 1100-1800 Oleg Grabar, 2006 Islamic Visual Culture 1100 1800 is the second in a set of four selections of studies by Oleg Grabar Its focus is on the key centuries the eleventh through fourteenth during which the main directions of traditional Islamic art were created and developed and for which classical approaches of the History of Art were adopted Manuscript illustrations and the arts of objects dominate the selection of articles but there are also forays into later times like Mughal India and into definitions of area and period styles as with the Mamluks in Egypt and the Ottomans or into parallels between Islamic and Christian medieval arts

Deixis and Pronouns in Romance Languages Kirsten Jeppesen Kragh, Jan Lindschouw, 2013-11-14 This volume proposes a new way to address the classical question concerning the relation between language cognition and culture from the perspective of two basic systems deixis and the pronominal system It investigates the linguistic structuring of basic concepts of person place and time in Romance languages disclosing structural differences that may be related to mental parameters and other extra linguistic circumstances and thus possibly linked to a light revision of the Sapir Whorf hypothesis The methodological and theoretical focus is based on the discursive and pragmatic functional approach to deixis The articles concern linguistic variation and language change and most of the studies adopt cross linguistic perspectives primarily among Romance languages but also with a classical perspective from Ancient Greek discussing the existence of universal categorical patterns The studies reveal similarities and differences between Romance languages mutually and set the stage for comparisons between Romance and non Romance languages These similarities and differences are subject to change in connection with cultural developments in society and offer in this volume a coordinated effort in exploring the linguistic expressions of these extra linguistic concepts     The Ballads of Bengal Candrakumāra De,1988     How Strange the Change Marc Caplan,2011-09-14 This is a revolutionary work in the study of Yiddish literature and post colonial theory offering a new methodology for comparative research a new definition of literary modernism and an unprecedented juxtaposition of Jewish Studies with African literature     Forster Collection South Kensington Museum. Forster Collection,1888     Esoteric Images: Decoding the Late Herat School of Painting Tawfiq Da'adli,2019-04-09 In Esoteric Images: Decoding the Late Herat School of Painting Tawfiq Da adli decodes the pictorial language which flourished in the city of Herat modern Afghanistan under the rule of the last Timurid ruler Sultan Husayn Bayqara r 1469 1506 This study focuses on one illustrated manuscript of a poem entitled Khamsa by the Persian poet Nizami Ganjavi kept in the British Library under code Or 6810 Tawfiq Da adli decodes the paintings reveals the syntax behind them and thus deciphers the message of the whole manuscript The book combines scholarly efforts to interpret theological political lessons embedded in one of the foremost Persian schools of art against the background of the court dynamic of an influential medieval power in its final years     Translation Power Hugo Raines,AI,2025-05-06 Translation Power explores how translation profoundly shapes intellectual history and cultural exchange It argues that translation is not merely a linguistic task but a dynamic force influencing intellectual discourse literary styles and cultural identities The book examines how translations act as conduits for philosophical scientific and religious ideas often catalyzing periods of intense intellectual innovation For example the translation of Greek texts into Latin significantly influenced the Renaissance The study progresses by first introducing foundational concepts in translation studies and intellectual history It then analyzes case studies illustrating the impact of translation on specific intellectual and literary traditions The book investigates the impact of translation on literary styles analyzing how adopting foreign forms enriches literary traditions It also examines how communities construct their self image through translated texts shaping cultural identities By bridging language arts history and cultural studies Translation Power offers a holistic understanding of how translation shapes human thought and expression It considers the ethical and political implications acknowledging debates about cultural appropriation and linguistic imperialism Ultimately the book positions translation as a central engine of cultural and intellectual change appealing to those interested in the power of language     Recent Scholarship on Japan Richard Donovan,2019-12-02 This anthology presents a survey of recent scholarship on Japanese literature classical postwar and contemporary and Japan studies from both established and up and coming academics based in the West and East This collection of cutting edge scholarship offers a snapshot of the current state of Japan studies in the second decade of the twenty first century The first section of the book considers the Heian period and its literature from the perspective of female authors and their works The second part explores postwar prose and poetry as well as the writing of contemporary author Haruki Murakami relating them all to issues present in Japan's wider society Finally the third section puts Japan and its writings within the global context comparing them with other historical cultural and linguistic milieus and considering the role of translation in representing Japanese literature to the world
