Harold A. Skaarup, 2005-06-15 Canada has a rich and interesting military intelligence history one that continues to grow at a rapidly expanding rate Intelligence is a key element of operations enabling commanders to successfully plan and conduct operations It enables them to win decisive battles and it helps them to identify and attack high value targets In order to ensure Commanders have the required support they need to plan and conduct operations members of Canada's Military Intelligence Branch are serving in an increasingly dangerous number of hotspots around the world In recent years they have served in Bosnia Herzegovina Haiti Somalia Rwanda East Timor and Afghanistan just to name a few While Intelligence personnel have played a major role in ensuring the successful completion of these interdiction missions many of their stories remain classified This history cannot truly be complete until the Official Secrets Act permits a clearer picture to be told Out of Darkness Light Volume 2 should however give the interested reader at least a partial view of some of the service that has been carried out on Canada's behalf by the Canadian Forces Intelligence Branch for the years 1983 to 1997 Spatial

Policy in a Divided Nation Richard T. Harrison, Mark Hart, 2002-09 This re evaluation of the role of regional policy in the UK has been accompanied by a much closer identification of regional policy with national economic policymaking This book drawing upon the contributions of a large number of experts in the field in the UK sets the debate on the future of spatial policy explicitly within the context of the economics and politics of the North South divide Recent policy debates in the United Kingdom have highlighted two major issues which will shape future policy developments and their impact in the 1990s the persistence of pronounced regional economic and social imbalances and the shift away from traditional perceptions of the role of regional policy with a new emphasis on inner city as opposed to regional problems In this collection by leading researchers in the field the role of regional policy in the UK is re evaluated against a background of renewed debate on the economic disparities inherent in the north south divide and an assessment of the implications for future policy

After September Andrew J. Salat, 2002-06 This is a sequel to When September Comes A story based partially on life about a family who had for generations lost their women to a genetic flaw Helen Coulson Kovac had not only inherited the gene but like her mother would push into her subconscious the knowledge of dying young Curiously this feat enabled her to see humor in ordinary things as she tried to compress a lifetime of joy into few precious years Motherless at seventeen a coming of age experience with an out of town stranger completely devastated the deeply moral Helen Morality however had to be put aside when her lover vanished and she had to find another to play father to her unborn child Helen found that there are times when a human flaw can become a gratuity from a Higher Source Few however can know which mistake might actually enrich our lives If we did we'd experiment with making them and have fun too No matter how she tried Helen could never forget her first love Aside the diverse tangents that play a role in her remarkable life how she goes about the task of separating fantasy from reality is what this love story is about Like most chronicles this one encompasses the joy of growing up the mysterious stirring of first love and the inevitable heartache that touches most of us How a valiant woman and the man she loves confronts her predestined fate can make this an epic not easily forgotten
