Food on Film Tom Hertweck, 2014-10-30 From early cinematic depictions of food as a symbol of ethnic and cultural identity to more complex contemporary portrayals movies have demonstrated how our ideas about food are always changing On the big and small screens representations of addiction starvation and even food as fetish reinforce how important food is in our lives and in our culture In Food on Film Bringing Something New to the Table Tom Hertweck brings together innovative viewpoints about a popular yet understudied subject in cinema This collection explores the pervasiveness of food in film from movies in which meals play a starring role to those that feature food and eating in supporting or cameo appearances The volume asks provocative questions about food and its relationship with work urban life sexual orientation the family race morality and a wide range of appetites The fourteen essays by international interdisciplinary scholars offer a wide range of perspectives on such films and television shows as The Color Purple Do the Right Thing Ratatouille The Road Sex and the City Twin Peaks and even Jaws From first course to last Food on Film will be of interest to scholars of film and television sociology anthropology and cultural history

The Death of Science Andrew Holster, 2016-07-26 Modern science is in unprecedented crisis It is a crisis at many levels continuous with larger crises of modern society It is a crisis for the vocation of the scientist working within the modern institutionalised structures of science It is a crisis for our capacity to use science benevolently to help solve larger material organisational and ultimately political problems of the modern era And it is a crisis for philosophy for the role of natural science to help inform our world view The Death of Science is an account of deeper causes of this malaise It starts by taking up the reins of L pez Corredoira s 2013 The Twilight of the Scientific Age a recent critique that concludes with modern science on its death bed It dissects key themes in detail illustrated in the same frank style drawing on personal examples It starts with deep issues in the philosophy of science recounting failed modern concepts of scientific progress method and truth going on to failures of peer review and gate keeping as quality control systems the domination of propaganda and marketing channels as the critical tools for professional success and the major outcome for creative scientists themselves the destruction of scientific creativity and exclusion of heterodox thinkers in this degraded environment It connects the behavioural symptoms with a psycho social analysis of the bureaucratic mode of organisation under which science like all other modern vocations is now subsumed The account supports L pez Corredoira s appraisal which sees a modern science industry driven by greed and ambition repressing imagination and freedom destructive of novelty and diversity of ideas controlled by bureaucratic academic power hierarchies While science is irrevocably corrupted by its modern mass institutionalisation the true spirit of science can only be sustained by individuals with a real vocation as scientists or natural philosophers who seek understanding and meaning and wisdom rather than technocratic specialisation and careers But it is increasingly impossible for scientists to withstand forces of professional conformity and maintain their personal sense of value A number of current controversies in some core sciences are also discussed and it is argued that the greatest revelations of real science are yet to come While Establishment Science has locked itself into dogmatic paradigms the failures of present theories show that we are really on the cusp of major revolutions spanning sciences of physics and cosmology information and intelligence biology and evolution and mind and consciousness If these are realised they will profoundly change our understanding of the nature of the world and ourselves But any such revolutions challenge a Science Establishment locked into the self interest of its power brokers and are unlikely to occur except through independent scientists working outside the institutional system The book concludes with a brief discussion of the place of independent scientists

Eco Crime and Genetically Modified Food Reece Walters,2010-10-04 The GM debate has been ongoing for over a decade yet it has been contained in the scientific world and presented in technical terms Eco Crime and Genetically Modified Food brings the debates about GM food into the social and criminological arena This book highlights the criminal and harmful actions of state and corporate officials It concludes that corporate and political corruption uncertain science bitter public opposition growing farmer concern and bankruptcy irreversible damage to biodiversity corporate monopolies and exploitation disregard for social and cultural practices devastation of small scale and local agricultural economies imminent threats to organics weak regulation and widespread political and biotech mistrust do not provide the bases for advancing and progressing GM foods into the next decade Yet with the backing of the WTO the US and UK Governments march on but at what cost to future generations

Helen Clark Claudia Pond Eyley,Dan Salmon,2015-10-30 New Zealand's first elected woman prime minister nine years in power through Afghanistan and Iraq the Corngate and Paintergate affairs the foreshore and seabed turmoil head of the UN Development Program and ranked among the most powerful women in the world Helen Clark's public life is well known But what about the inside stories During 2012 2013 documentary makers Claudia Pond Eyley and Dan Salmon interviewed a host of participants about the life of Helen Clark Clark herself and her family political friends and enemies mentors and staffers journalists and lobbyists The resulting transcripts from those interviews woven together here into a compelling narrative offer a brilliantly multi faceted inside account of Helen Clark's life and career From her father George Clark to friend Cath Tizard Richard Prebble to Jim Anderton Winston Peters to Don Brash Jacinda Ardern to John Key Helen Clark and her contemporaries bring to life the tumultuous life and times of one of our most important political leaders Through the words of the players themselves sometimes raw sometimes angry we find ourselves taken inside the major political developments of the last fifty years This is a frank revealing account of Helen Clark and her world
