Based on the Movie Billy Taylor, 2008-08-05 It's been nine months since Bobby Conlon's wife dumped him for a hot young film director and he's doing great. Okay so he occasionally breaks into Natalie's apartment and sobs along to her old Carole King records but that's only when he's out of meds. He's better now. One hundred percent. And to prove it he's throwing out that year old Christmas tree decorated with five hundred empty Vicodin bottles and flying to Texas to work on a movie starring Ralph the Swimming Pig. But once in Texas Bobby realizes he's signed on to the most dysfunctional movie ever. The director can't direct, the pig catches pneumonia and just when things can't get any worse Natalie and her boyfriend are hired to take over the movie. Suddenly Bobby's personal and professional lives collide and no matter which way he turns fresh disasters await. Still in spite of everything Bobby clings to the hope that a happy ending might still be possible. This is the movie business right. Based on the Movie is a laugh out loud look at what actually happens on a film location told from the perspective of the hardworking and long suffering men and women behind the scenes. As real life meets reel life prepare to be captivated by one of the most entertaining reads of the season.

Through popular movies starring Bruce Lee and songs like the disco hit Kung Fu Fighting martial arts have found a central place in the Western cultural imagination But what would martial arts be without the explosion of media texts and images that brought it to a wide audience in the late 1960s and early 1970s In this examination of the media history of what we now call martial arts author Paul Bowman makes the bold case that the phenomenon of martial arts is chiefly an invention of media representations Rather than passively taking up a preexisting history of martial arts practices some of which of course predated the martial arts boom in popular culture media images and narratives actively constructed martial arts Grounded in a historical survey of the British media history of martial arts such as Bartitsu jujutsu judo karate tai chi and MMA across a range of media this book thoroughly recasts our understanding of the history of martial arts By interweaving theories of key thinkers on historiography such as Foucault and Hobsbawm and Said's ideas on Orientalism with analyses of both mainstream and marginal media texts Bowman arrives at the surprising insight that media representations created martial arts rather than the other way around In this way he not only deepens our understanding of martial arts but also demonstrates the productive power of media discourses Justice in Young Adult Speculative Fiction Marek C.

Oziewicz,2015-04-17 This book is the first to offer a justice focused cognitive reading of modern YA speculative fiction in its narrative and filmic forms It links the expansion of YA speculative fiction in the 20th century with the emergence of human and civil rights movements with the communitarian revolution in conceptualizations of justice and with spectacular advances in cognitive sciences as applied to the examination of narrative fiction Oziewicz argues that complex ideas such as justice are processed by the human mind as cognitive scripts that scripts when narrated take the form of multiply indexable stories and that YA speculative fiction is currently the largest conceptual testing ground in the forging of justice consciousness for the 21st century world Drawing on recent research in the cognitive and evolutionary sciences Oziewicz explains how poetic retributive restorative environmental social and global types of justice have been represented in narrative fiction from 19th century folk and fairy tales through 21st century fantasy dystopia and science fiction Suggesting that the appeal of these and other nonmimetic genres is largely predicated on the dream of justice Oziewicz theorizes new justice scripts as conceptual tools essential to help humanity survive the qualitative leap toward an environmentally conscious culturally diversified global world This book is an important contribution to studies of children s and YA speculative fiction adding a new perspective to discussions about the educational as well as social potential of nonmimetic genres It demonstrates that the justice imperative is very much alive in YA speculative fiction creating new visions of justice relevant to contemporary challenges Handbook of Research on Transmedia Storytelling and Narrative Strategies Yilmaz, Recep, Erdem, M.
