Transnational Lives in Global Cities Caroline Plüss, 2018-12-21. This book investigates the transnational experiences of Chinese Singaporeans who lived in one of four global cities: Hong Kong, London, New York, or Singapore. Plüss argues that these middle-class, well-educated and often highly skilled migrants mostly experienced a sense of disembeddedness and not cosmopolitanism or hybridity in their transnational lives. The author's multi-sited study intersects the Chinese Singaporeans' highly varied perceptions of these global cities and their biographies to show that these migrants, who often were repeat migrants, foremost experienced ruptures and disjuncture in their education, work, family, and/or friendships lifestyle contexts. Transnational disembeddedness is explained in terms of the Chinese Singaporeans' access to resources and their views of self, others, places, and societies. Plüss recommends that research on these migrants should more fully account for the complexities of transnational processes and contributes with such a knowledge to the scholarship on transnationalism, migration, race, and ethnicity, and migrant non-integration.

Global Hong Kong Cindy Wong, Gary McDonogh, 2014-06-03. Global Hong Kong locates Hong Kong in the contemporary globalizing world. Hong Kong, as the authors argue, is an archetypal place sitting at the intersection of East and West. It is also a major center for global capital flows and world trade. Moreover, in recent years, the island's global cultural power has become increasingly evident as Hong Kong popular culture has spread to the West via a booming film industry. While looking at issues of postcoloniality, transnationalism, and economic globalization, Wong and McDonogh focus on the new cultures and social formations of contemporary Hong Kong, as well as the transformation of the physical city itself. They also trace the new interconnections economic demographic social and cultural between Hong Kong and other parts of the world that have been fostered by globalization. Books in this series look at how nations and regions across the world are navigating the tumultuous currents of globalization. Concise descriptive interdisciplinary and theoretically informed they serve as ideal introductions to the peoples and places of our increasingly globalized world. Transnational Media Suman Mishra, Rebecca Kern-Stone, 2019-04-02. Street foods run deep throughout human history and show the movements of peoples and their foods across the globe. For example, mandoo, manti, momo, and baozi, all of these types of dumplings, originated in Central Asia and spread across the Old World beginning in the 12th century. This encyclopedia surveys common street foods in about 100 countries and regions of the world, clearly depicting how fast foods of the common people fit into a country or a region's environments, cultural history, and economy.
