Regional Integration and Development Maurice W. Schiff, L. Alan Winters, 2003 This text examines regionalism from the perspective of developing countries. It presents a comprehensive account of existing theory and empirical results and incorporates the findings of formal analyses of the politics and dynamics of regionalism. Regional Integration Among Developing Countries Rolf J. Langhammer, Ulrich Hiemenz, 1990 Regionalism, Security and Development in Africa Ernest Tooche Aniche, Ikenna Mike Alumona, Innocent Moyo, 2021-04-29 This book charts the history and contemporary landscape of African regionalism investigating how regional cooperation can be used to help to tackle security and development challenges in Africa. Africa has a long tradition of regional cooperation with the oldest trade and monetary integration schemes in the developing world but its colonial period and partition have caused lasting damage that still be seen in today's African economies. Contemporary post colonial African regionalism deeply rooted in notions of pan Africanism has served as a means of collective self reliance and economic transformation and development. This book starts with the history and theory behind African regionalism before discussing and comparing regional organisations such as the Economic Community of Central African States ECCAS the Economic Community of West African States ECOWAS the Community of Sahel Saharan States CEN SAD Southern African Development Community SADC the Common Market for Eastern and Southern Africa COMESA and the East African Community EAC. Finally the book considers how regional integration and cooperation can help to address security and development challenges. This ambitious and broad ranging book will be a valuable resource for researchers working on African regionalism security African integration and development and comparative regionalism. Policymakers should also consider it a useful guide to the background and contemporary landscape of African regionalism.

Regional Integration and Developing Countries Robert Christopher York, Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development, 1993 Governing Regional Integration for Development Antoni Estevadeordal, 2016-04-22 Developing countries have joined the rapidly growing global system of regional trade agreements RTAs over the past years. The drive towards regional integration has advanced with the formation of new markets and groups in Latin America Africa Asia the Middle East and Oceania with few developing countries remaining outside these regional schemes. This volume looks at how getting governance right is a central element for successful RTA implementation taking stock of the quality and effectiveness of the monitoring of development country RTAs around the world. Organized by the main world regions and primarily focusing on developing country RTAs the book also includes two case studies focused on monitoring in developed country regional agreements by way of comparison. The contributors operationalize governance in the context of RTA implementation with a more narrow and technical term of monitoring and provide eight important lessons for assessing monitoring around the world. Regional Integration and Economic Development N. Saavedra-Rivano, A. Hosono, B. Stallings, 2001-09-06 Regional integration seems to be thriving everywhere as the examples of the Association of South East Asian Nations ASEAN

the North Atlantic Free Trade Area NAFTA and the Southern Common Market will illustrate More ambitious schemes such as Asian Pacific Economic Cooperation APEC and those for Western hemispheric integration are also underway How do these trends for integration relate to national development strategies The contributors to this volume provide new insights into these developments as well as assessing the prospects for further integration

Regional Integration Among Developing Countries, Revisited András Inotai,1991 The formation of new powerful economic and trading blocs and the transition to market economies in Central and perhaps Eastern Europe has fostered a trend toward new regionalism in the world economy which the virtual failure of the GATT negotiations may speed up To minimize economic losses and avoid marginalization regional groups of developing countries must increasingly work out common positions and join one of the influential groups

Economic Integration and Development Mordechai Elihu Kreinin,Michael G. Plummer,2002 Questions related to the economics of regionalism became increasingly important beginning in the late 1980s when regional groupings started to become very popular as a tool of commercial policy The goal of this book is to address the question of whether or not regionalism in developed countries has truly benefited developing countries and to what degree regionalism among developing countries and between developed and developing countries will improve economic development prospects Mordechai Kreinin and Michael Plummer consider the implications of the emerging global trend of economic regionalism for developing countries The analysis focuses on the trade and investment effects of integration in developed countries on developing countries as well as the ramifications of regional integration in the latter After an extensive review of the theoretical and empirical literature pertinent to the economics of regionalism the book considers the ex posttrade and direct foreign investment effects of the Single Market Program in Europe and NAFTA followed by chapters on ASEAN and economic integration in Latin America primarily MERCOSUR The study suggests three salient conclusions First in designing preferential trading arrangements developed countries should recognize and attempt to minimize the possible discriminating effect on developing countries Second the developing countries have an abiding interest in the success of WTO negotiations that would minimize the discrimination against them of regional groupings in Europe and North America And third any customs unions or free trade areas among the developing countries themselves should be outward looking if they are to enhance the welfare of developing countries Economists and policy scholars as well as readers interested in regionalism and economic development will find this book a great resource

Integration Elias T. Ayuk, Samuel T. Kaboré, 2012-11-28 Could regional integration be a first step toward joining the global market In a context where liberalizing trade has not produced the expected gains in developing countries and growth in global trade has not led to the expected economic growth an alternative solution has emerged This new paradigm suggests that trade liberalization should be accompanied by public investment However by its very nature trade liberalization leads to a reduction in revenues from duties and taxes which means that the available resources for public investments will also be reduced There are now solid arguments for encouraging the less developed countries to first emphasize regional integration before trying to access the global market This book explores the issues linked to regional integration in West Africa and presents empirical data about the experiences in West African Economic and Monetary Union WAEMU countries to converge their economies It also examines how these efforts which make a major contribution to regional integration influence poverty reduction in the economic and monetary community It will be of interest to researchers working in this area Elias T Ayuk is Director of the United Nations University Institute for Natural Resources in Africa in Accra Ghana and was formerly a senior program specialist at the International Development Research Centre Samuel T Kaboré is a researcher lecturer at the Faculty of Economics and Management at the University of Ouagadougou II BurkinaFaso Canada's International Development Research Centre IDRC supports research in developing countries to promote growth and development IDRC also encourages sharing this knowledge with policymakers other researchers and communities around the world The result is innovative lasting local solutions that aim to bring choice and change to those who need it most Elias T Ayuk is Director of the United Nations University Institute for Natural Resources in Africa in Accra Ghana and was formerly a senior program specialist at the International Development Research Centre Samuel T Kaboré is a researcher lecturer at the Faculty of Economics and Management at the University of Ouagadougou II Burkina Faso Canada's International Development Research Centre IDRC supports research in developing countries to promote growth and development IDRC also encourages sharing this knowledge with policymakers other researchers and communities around the world The result is innovative lasting local solutions that aim to bring choice and change to those who need it most Innovation, Regional Integration, and Development in Africa

Samuel Ojo Oloruntoba, Mammo Muchie, 2018-07-26 This edited volume discusses the role of innovation and regional integration in economic development in Africa Over the past five decades post colonial African countries have struggled to break loose from the trap of poverty and underdevelopment through the adoption of various development strategies at regional national and continental levels However the results of both national and regional efforts at advancing development on the continent have been mixed Although the importance of agglomeration and fusion of institutions have long been recognized as possible path to achieving economic development in Africa the approach to regionalism has been unduly focused on market integration while neglecting other dimensions such as social policy mobility of labor educational policy biotechnology regional legislation manufacturing innovation and science and technology This volume investigates the link between innovation regional integration and development in Africa arguing that the immediate and long term development of Africa lies not just in the structural transformation of its economies but in the advancement of scientific and innovation capacities The book is divided into four parts Part I addresses the theoretical and conceptual underpinnings of innovation and regional integration in Africa Part II presents case studies which examine how regional economic institutions are fostering innovation in Africa Part III of the book deals with sectoral issues on innovation and integrated development in Africa Part IV sets the future research on innovation regional integration and development in Africa Combining theoretical analysis and a comparative interdisciplinary approach this volume is appropriate for researchers and students interested in economic development political economy African studies international relations agricultural science and geography as well as policymakers in regional economic communities and the African Union

Regional Integration and Poverty Dirk Willem te Velde, the Overseas Development Institute, 2017-05-15 Relatively little is known about how regional integration affects poverty Many suggest that increased investment would be one of the benefits of agreeing on regional integration provisions but this has not been put to the empirical test for South South integration This volume examines the channels through which regional integration affects poverty and empirically analyzes the effects on foreign direct investment
