Gerontechnology Jan A. M. Graafmans, Vappu Taipale, Neil Charness, 1998 This publication is concerned with gerontechnology the study of technology and ageing with the aim of improving the functioning of older people in daily life The first part of the book is a compilation of the key note addresses describing the background for and the conditions under which the emerging field of gerontechnology can be developed further The chapters deal with political socio economic ethical demographic issues related to gerontechnology Furthermore methodological approaches in human factors ergonomics and industrial design are described Trends in technological developments and innovations conclude the first volume The second part presents some 80 case studies divided over 9 sections 1 perception and cognition 2 communication technology 3 mobility and transport 4 health and home care technology 5 housing 6 training and education 7 safety and security 8 product design and 9 culture and attitudes Assistive Technology on the Threshold of the New Millennium Christian Bühler, Harry Knops, 1999 The field of assistive technology is influenced by the ongoing and rapid development of mainstream technologies on the one hand and continuing changes to social systems in relation to societal events such as the ageing of the population on the other The articles in this book provide a broad overview of developments in technical support for people with functional restrictions key technologies like telecommunications and IT are addressed while low tech practical solutions are also considered Health Telematics for Clinical Guidelines and Protocols Colin Gordon, J. P. Christensen, 1995 Guidelines for clinical practice sometimes also termed practice policies receive increasing attention from clinicians and health services as means for applying best current knowledge to maximise the quality and efficiency of delivered care Earlier studies confirm the growing and widespread importance of this trend within medicine and the widely recognised potential for healthcare telematics as a means to enable the use of clinical guidelines to deliver fullest benefits to patients This book explores the scope and needs for further work in this area Listed by Biological Abstracts RRM BIOSIS volume 47 issue 4 April 1994 the papers presented are wide ranging such that anyone with an interest in any aspect of guideline development or application is likely to find something worthwhile It is therefore a book to dip into according to the reader's interest Even clinicians with little knowledge of telematics will find several chapters on the principles of clinical guidelines and protocols of interest while those from the field of telematics will find plenty of material regarding the complexities of representation of clinical knowledge L Boydell S E Belfast Health and Social Services Trust Belfast UK Journal of Telemedicine and Telecare volume 2 no 1 1996 p 61 62 Data Security for Health Care SEISMED Consortium, 1996 The efficiency of modern health care relies more and more upon a computerised infrastructure Open distributed information systems have started to bring professionals together from all over the world On the one hand easy processing and communication of images sound and texts will help to visualize and therefore treat illnesses and diseases efficiently on the other hand the very ease of access and use can threaten patient privacy accountability and health care professional secrecy Developments in community care are responsible for the fact that many aspects of patient care are delivered outside the closed walls of a hospital and hence patient records must also be accessible and updated throughout the community Therefore the introduction of information technology should focus primarily on the improvement of the health of patients or at least not putting patients health at risk This means that the right data has to be available to the right person at the right time availability Information technology deeply affects the confidential relationship between patient and doctor since it increasingly surrounds and mediates it Information systems in health care establishments are increasingly developing towards an integrated system where various users can interact and communicate The process of integration will cross the borders of local health care establishments and it will progressively expand e g into patients homes into a European health care community in order to support the mobility of patients the exchange of medical and administrative data transfer of bills and money Interactive Technology and the New Paradigm for Healthcare Richard M. Satava, Karen Morgan, Hans B. Sieburg, 1995 This work contains the state of the art in Virtual Reality as applied to Medicine Interactive technology used in many research and development programs can be applied to health care by involving robotics computer vision simulation artificial intelligence image manipulation and storage data gloves man machine interfaces etc The Health Telematics Application Program for example is advancing virtual reality and enabling technologies simulation visualization and robotics in health care services for patients the elderly and persons with disabilities This book addresses the following items from the end user's perspective technology transfer telerobotics telemedicine education and training and virtual reality the book would be useful for those researching interactive technologies in health care especially virtual reality It would be also of interest to people who want to keep abreast of the latest developments in techno medical research Rod Elford Telemedicine Centre Memorial University St John's Newfoundland Canada Journal of Telemedicine and Telecare volume 2 no 3 1996 p 178 Covered by Current Contents Life Sciences ISI volume 38 no 34 August 1995 p 11 13 , Three Dimensional Analysis of Spinal Deformities M.
