To Build a Wall Gregg Ivers, 1995 To Build a Wall represents the first extensive study of the effect of Jewish interest groups on church state litigation Ivers carefully traces the evolution of the American Jewish Committee the American Jewish Congress and the ADL from benevolent social service agencies to powerful organized interest groups active on all fronts of American politics and public affairs He draws extensively upon original sources and archival materials from each organization personal interviews over a five year period as well as the personal files and papers of Leo Pfeffer the lead counsel or amicus curiae in nearly every establishment clause case from the late 1940s through the early eighties Ivers concludes that organized interests can and do have critical influence in the legal process but that organizational needs and external demands result in a more ad hoc less planned approach to law and litigation than much previous scholarship has suggested Ivers also argues that the ethnic economic and religious differences that led to the formation of competing Jewish organizations eighty years ago continue to drive a dynamic pluralism within the Jewish community manifest in part in
