Rhetorics of Race and Religion on the Christian Right Samuel P. Perry, 2019-11-20 As the first African American president Barack Obama faced unique challenges and obstacles when addressing issues of race While rhetorical attacks on the basis of race directed at Obama were not unexpected many of the most consistent racially motivated criticisms of Obama were associated with his religious identity The Jeremiah Wright controversy gave way to the birther and secret Muslim conspiracy theories while anxieties about Obama's identity proved particularly potent as modes of political attack in the context of the war on terror This book examines the ways in which those attacks often originated in the rhetoric of the Christian Right and the ways in which these theories circulated amongst the Christian Right Perry argues that the intersections of race and religion in American politics produced rhetoric that often caricatured Obama as un American anti Christian and an enemy of the state By exploring the arguments used to cultivate these characterizations and tracing the roots of conspiracies that worked to delegitimize Obama's religious identity through racial claims and stereotypes a clearer picture emerges of what is at stake when people can no longer separate religious convictions from political arguments

Melancholic Freedom David Kyuman Kim, 2007-06-25 Why does agency the capacity to make choices and to act in the world matter to us Why is it meaningful that our intentions have effects in the world that they reflect our sense of identity that they embody what we value What kinds of motivations are available for political agency and judgment in an age that lacks the enthusiasm associated with the great emancipatory movements for civil rights and gender equality What are the conditions for the possibility of being an effective agent when the meaning of democracy has become less transparent David Kyuman Kim addresses these crucial questions by uncovering the political moral philosophical and religious dimensions of human agency Kim treats agency as a form of religious experience that reflects implicit and explicit notions of the good Of particular concern are the moral political and religious motivations that underpin an understanding of agency as meaningful action Through a critical engagement with the work of theorists such as Judith Butler Charles Taylor and Stanley Cavell Kim argues that late modern and postmodern agency is found most effectively at work in what he calls projects of regenerating agency or critical and strategic responses to loss Agency as melancholic freedom begins and endures Kim maintains through the moral and psychic losses associated with a broad range of experiences including the moral identities shaped by secularized modernity and the multifold forms of alienation experienced by those who suffer the indignities of racial gender class and sexuality discrimination and oppression Kim calls for renewing the sense of urgency in our political and moral engagements by seeing agency as a vocation where the aspiration for self transformation and the human need for hope are fundamental concerns Imagining Judeo-Christian

America K. Healan Gaston, 2019-11-15 Judeo Christian is a remarkably easy term to look right through Judaism and Christianity obviously share tenets texts and beliefs that have strongly influenced American democracy In this ambitious book however K Healan Gaston challenges the myth of a monolithic Judeo Christian America She demonstrates that the idea is not only a recent and deliberate construct but also a potentially dangerous one From the time of its widespread adoption in the 1930s the ostensible inclusiveness of Judeo Christian terminology concealed efforts to promote particular conceptions of religion secularism and politics Gaston also shows that this new language originally rooted in arguments over the nature of democracy that intensified in the early Cold War years later became a marker in the culture wars that continue today She argues that the debate on what constituted Judeo Christian and American identity has shaped the country's religious and political culture much more extensively than previously recognized Migration and the Global Landscapes of Religion

David Garbin, 2023-06-29 This book draws upon case studies of the Congolese Christian diaspora in the UK and US and an ethnography of religious urbanization in the Democratic Republic of Congo DRC to explore the making of religious spaces and moral landscapes in an era of globalization Religion is a key aspect of the community social and political life of Congolese migrants many of whom have to address the predicaments of displacement relocation and the status of being a minority within a minority as Francophone black African migrants in English speaking countries The book demonstrates the role of religion in the production of moral worlds and the ways in which for Congolese Christians this process both results from and facilitates a process of regrounding in the midst of ambivalent urban environments Through a multi sited ethnography the book also examines the impact of transnational religious practices on development and city making in the homeland in a context of increasing informalization and infrastructural deficit Drawing on extensive ethnographic data David Garbin captures the nuances of a complex and changing social political and religious landscape for Congolese migrants relying on the construction of moral worlds and revealing the role of a range of connections but also disconnections between diaspora and homeland across multiple scales An essential resource for scholars and researchers interested in the intersections of religion migration and urbanization in both Global North and Global South contexts
