explains the tangled origins of commercial design and that of designing modern warfare the rise of various design movements and how today's military forces largely hold to a Newtonian stylization built upon mimicry of natural science infused with earlier medieval and religious inspirations Why does our species conceptualize war as such and how do military institutions erect barriers that become so powerful that efforts to design further innovation require entirely novel constructs outside the orthodoxy The book explains design stories from the Israel Defense Force the US Army the US Marine Corps the Canadian Armed Forces and the Australian Defence Force for the first time and includes the theory doctrine organizational culture and key actors involved Ultimately this book is about how small communities of practice are challenging the foundations of modern defence thinking This book will be of much interest to students of military and strategic studies defence studies and security studies as well as design educators and military professionals
