K. Sara Myers, 2024. Beginning with Cicero and Varro and ending with Statius and Pliny the Younger, this chapter offers a chronological investigation of the ways in which real and literary gardens developed from the first century BCE to the first century CE as a means of elite masculine self-representation and the reactions of elite Roman men to the increased social and cultural power of villa and horti estates and their grounds. Gardens served as powerful symbols of wealth and as creative displays of the cultural aspirations of their owners in ways that challenged traditional definitions of gardens and of Roman manliness. Since these large-scale gardens are primarily associated with leisure (otium), authors are concerned with describing and justifying their activities in these sites as befitting Roman masculine ideals. We can trace a change in attitude towards leisure and the private display of wealth and consequently gardens largely attributed to changes in the socio-political circumstances of the Roman elite in the works of Statius and his contemporary Pliny the Younger, who use laudatory descriptions of extensive villas and grounds as a means of expressing social and literary power. Elisabeth B. MacDougall, Wilhelmina Feemster Jashemski, 1981. Italy's Renaissance in Buildings and Gardens. Frederick Kiefer, 2024-10-08. Palaces, villas, and churches: These were the highlights of my first visit to Italy. I took a lot of photos and looked forward to sharing them with friends and family. Back home, though, I found that I didn't recall much about the places that impressed me. Although I had the benefit of a half-day guide in Rome, Florence, and Venice, I sometimes had difficulty hearing what was said on crowded streets and busy interiors. The guides were capable but had only enough time to mention a few major features. As a rule, they skimmed on actually describing buildings that intrigued me. And so they were not especially helpful in providing the insights I wanted. Upon my return, I found myself wondering: Where did the architects actually find their ideas? What did they want to accomplish? And what do their choices tell us about their time? My sojourn in Italy would have been more satisfying if I had come away with a fuller account of what I had seen. What I most needed was context. This book supplies that context. Contemplation of antiquity and the exchange of views among architects released a surge of intellectual energy not seen for a millennium: a development that would never have happened so quickly were it not for Johannes Gutenberg's invention of printing with movable type. This development in turn led to architects' heightened self-awareness of their collective enterprise. They read what their fellow architects wrote and thereby gained in sophistication. They were no longer merely masons. They became architects in the modern sense. They took pride in their achievements and shared a conviction that the visual culture they created was far superior to that of the previous thousand years. Their embrace of classical civilisation had a visceral urgency. Rome, after all, was a culture with a storied past populated by larger-than-life figures. To learn what the ancients had created in word or stone could supply a shortcut to wisdom. And emulating

the Romans would provide new models of aesthetic excellence This endeavour became known as the Renaissance or rebirth The Reformation however changed everything Martin Luther brought to issue a quandary How exactly was Christianity to be reconciled with the pagan past if at all Could one source of inspiration be sustained without compromising the other Religious reform questioned the aesthetic achievements of the previous hundred years The story of Renaissance architecture represents the effort to find an accommodation

Garden History John Dixon Hunt,1992 This collection of essays explores the issues methods and approaches that students in landscape architecture have developed during that period to cope with the expanding subject of gardens and their history The volume will serve as a bench mark in the field with its range of approaches and wealth of illustrative material Each contributor focuses upon a specific piece of his or her research and uses this as a basis to discuss the wider implications of the study of gardens within such contexts as botanical horticultural agrarian literary technological social culture political and art history Provided by publisher

DeHart,2011 Gardens and Plants of the Getty Villa is the long awaited companion volume to Plants in the Getty s Central Garden published in 2004 In the first part of the book garden historian Patrick Bowe explores the design planting and uses of the ancient Roman garden and describes how J Paul Getty s vision to create such a garden in California was brought to reality The second part includes a sumptuously illustrated guide to the plants in each of the five gardens at the Villa Bowe introduces each of the gardens describing the underlying concepts and the relationship to the ancient Roman models as well as their architectural and sculptural elements present He also documents how plantings have been renewed in light of new knowledge emerging from excavations conducted in the Roman gardens of Pompeii and Herculaneum Horticulturist Michael DeHart provides informative descriptions of the growing habits and characteristics for each of the plants citing medicinal culinary and ritual uses for many of them

Hedge Britannia Hugh Barker,2012-05-10 Celebrating the history and the glory of the British hedgerow

Gardens of the Roman World Patrick Bowe,2004 Romans loved their gardens whether they were the grand gardens of imperial country estates or the small private spaces tucked behind city houses They treasured gardens both as places for relaxation and as plots to grow ornamental plants as well as fruits and vegetables The soothing sound of bubbling fountains often added further to the pleasures of life in the garden Romans constructed gardens in every corner of their empire from Britain to North Africa and from Portugal to Asia Minor Long after their empire collapsed the gardens they had so carefully planted continued to exert influence in the farflung corners of their former world This book describes the variety of Roman gardens throughout the empire from the humblest to the most lavish including such well known places as Hadrian s Villa in Tivoli and the gardens of Pompeii and Herculaneum The continued influence of Roman gardens is traced though Arabic medieval and Renaissance gardens to the present day Many of the lavish illustrations were commissioned for this book

Analysing the Boundaries of the Ancient Roman Garden Victoria Austen,2023-02-09 This book demonstrates how the Romans constructed garden boundaries specifically in order to open up or undermine the division between a number of oppositions such as inside outside sacred profane art nature and real imagined Using case studies from across literature and material and visual culture Victoria Austen explores the perception of individual garden sites in response to their limits and showcases how the Romans delighted in playing with concepts of boundedness and separation Transculturally the garden is understood as a marked off and cultivated space Distinct from their surroundings gardens are material and symbolic spaces that constitute both universal and culturally specific ways of accommodating the natural world and expressing human attitudes and values Although we define these spaces explicitly through the notions of separation and division in many cases we are unable to make sense of the most basic distinction between garden and not garden In response to this ambiguity Austen interrogates the notion of the boundary as an essential characteristic of the Roman garden

Byzantine Garden Culture Antony Robert Littlewood, Henry Maguire, Joachim Wolschke-Bulmahn, 2002 Individual essays discuss Byzantine conceptions of paradise the textual evidence for monastic horticulture animal and game parks herbs in medicinal pharmacy and the famous illustrated copy of Dioskorides's herbal manual in Vienna An opening chapter explores questions and observations from the point of view of a non Byzantine garden historian and the closing chapter suggests possible directions for future scholarship in the field

Perspectives on Garden Histories Michel Conan, 1999 Garden history is a discipline of contested purposes Perspectives on Garden Histories contributes to a self critical examination of this emergent field of study at the same time offering an overview of its main achievements in several domains such as Italian and Mughal gardens and of the new kinds of investigation to which they have led In its early years garden history centered on architectural studies of garden design but in the 1960s the emphasis shifted from garden design to garden meaning The new paradigm considered gardens as complex works of art and demanded an extensive documentation of the historical context as well as of the figurative and discursive sources This approach in its turn was challenged by neo Marxist scholars who proceeded to view landscape appreciation as an ideological superstructure an outgrowth of agricultural production processes Garden designs and their histories can also be viewed as expressions of ideological conflicts in society Neither gardens nor their history can thus be studied independently of the social cultural and political movements that give prominence to the contested ideologies Gardens can be used to foster some ideologies or reflect a reaction against a social change Comparative research offers another fascinating approach exploring the relations between European landscape concepts and other cultural contexts and discussing issues of cultural dominance and interpretation The emergence of various perspectives has led to the incorporation of further questions into the domain of garden studies which has been moving in new directions and using new methods in search of an adapted theoretical framework This volume offers a striking view of changes taking place in the discipline

A World of Gardens John Dixon Hunt, 2014-05-14 A Japanese garden is immediately distinct to the eye from the traditional gardens of an English manor house just as the manicured topiaries of Versailles contrast with the sharp cacti of the American Southwest Though gardening is beloved the world over the style of gardens themselves varies from region to region determined as much by culture as climate In this series of illustrated essays John Dixon Hunt takes us on a world tour of different periods in the making of gardens Hunt shows here how cultural assumptions and local geography have shaped gardens and their meaning He explores our continuing responses to land and reworkings of the natural world encompassing a broad range of gardens from ancient Roman times to early Islamic and Mughal gardens from Chinese and Japanese gardens to the invention of the public park and modern landscape architecture A World of Gardens looks at key chapters in garden history reviewing their significance past and present and tracing the recurrence of different themes and motifs in the design and reception of gardens throughout the world A World of Gardens celebrates the idea that similar experiences of gardens can be found in many different times and places including sacred landscapes scientific gardens urban gardens secluded gardens and symbolic gardens Featuring two hundred images this book is a treasure trove of ideas and inspiration whether your garden is a window box a secluded backyard or a daydream

Image and Imagination in Byzantine Art

Henry Maguire, 2023-05-31 The twelve studies contained in this second collection by Henry Maguire are linked together by a common theme namely the relationship of Byzantine art to the imaginary They show how art enabled the Byzantines not only to imagine the sacred events of the past but also to visualize the invisible present by manifesting the spiritual world that they could not see The articles are grouped around the following five topics the depiction of nature by the Byzantines before and after iconoclasm especially in portrayals of the earthly and the spiritual Paradise the social functions and theological significance of classical artistic forms in Byzantine art after iconoclasm the association between rhetoric and the visual arts in Byzantium especially in contrast to the role played by liturgical drama in western medieval art the relationship of the visual arts to Byzantine concepts of justice and the law both human and divine and portrayals of the two Byzantine courts the imperial court on earth and the imagined court in heaven The papers cover a wide range of media including floor and wall mosaics paintings in manuscripts and churches ivory carvings coins and enamel work
