People of the State of Illinois V. Jones ,1991      Convicting the Innocent Brandon L. Garrett,2012-09-03 On January 20 1984 Earl Washington defended for all of forty minutes by a lawyer who had never tried a death penalty case was found guilty of rape and murder in the state of Virginia and sentenced to death After nine years on death row DNA testing cast doubt on his conviction and saved his life However he spent another eight years in prison before more sophisticated DNA technology proved his innocence and convicted the guilty man DNA exonerations have shattered confidence in the criminal justice system by exposing how often we have convicted the innocent and let the guilty walk free In this unsettling in depth analysis Brandon Garrett examines what went wrong in the cases of the first 250 wrongfully convicted people to be exonerated by DNA testing Based on trial transcripts Garrett s investigation into the causes of wrongful convictions reveals larger patterns of incompetence abuse and error Evidence corrupted by suggestive eyewitness procedures coercive interrogations unsound and unreliable forensics shoddy investigative practices cognitive bias and poor lawyering illustrates the weaknesses built into our current criminal justice system Garrett proposes practical reforms that rely more on documented recorded and audited evidence and less on fallible human memory Very few crimes committed in the United States involve biological evidence that can be tested using DNA How many unjust convictions are there that we will never discover Convicting the Innocent makes a powerful case for systemic reforms to improve the accuracy of all criminal cases

Theory, Policy and Dynamics in International Trade Wilfred J. Ethier,Wilfred Ethier,Elhanan Helpman,J. Peter Neary,1993 This book presents a representative collection of papers on international trade one of the most dynamic sub fields in economics The contributions range over all the major areas of research including articles on the geographical aspects of international trade by Paul Krugman and Alan Deardorff on dynamic stochastic economies by Avinash Dixit and on endogenous growth by Gene Grossman and Elhanan Helpman In addition to the theoretical contributions the book also contains work on important policy issues such as auction quotas discussed by Kala Krishna and the role of government in economic development by Anne Krueger Also included is an assessment by Bill Ethier of the theoretical achievements of a leading authority in international trade theory Ronald Jones in whose honour the essays were written      New York Central Railroad Company V. Butler ,1957      Transdisciplinary Knowledge Production in Architecture and Urbanism Isabelle Doucet,Nel Janssens,2011-01-13 The volume addresses the hybridisation of knowledge production in space related research In contrast with interdisciplinary knowledge which is primarily located in scholarly environments transdisciplinary knowledge production entails a fusion of academic and non academic knowledge theory and practice discipline and profession Architecture and urbanism operating as both a discipline and a profession seems to form a particularly receptive ground for transdisciplinary research However this specificity has not yet been developed into a full fledged unique mode of knowledge production In order to dedicate specific attention to transdisciplinary knowledge production this book aims to explore new hybrid modes of inquiry that allow many of architecture's longstanding schisms to be overcome such as between theory history and practice critical theory and projective design the adoption of an external viewpoint and a view from within often under the guise of bottom up vs top down It therefore offers the reader a mix of contributions that elaborate on knowledge production that is situated in the architectural and urban profession or practice and on practice based approaches in theory

Fragmentation Sven W. Arndt, Henryk Kierzkowski, 2001-02-08 Fragmentation is a term used in this volume to describe cross border component specialization and production sharing Examination of recent trade data suggests that offshore sourcing of parts and components as well as offshore assembly are assuming an increasing role in the world economy The theoretical implications of this type of specialization are examined in several chapters with the aid of both Ricardian and Heckscher Ohlin trade models Production is first decomposed fragmented into its constituent parts and activities and then it is at this level that factor intensities and technologies are calibrated The implications of intra product specialization and component trade are investigated under conditions of free restricted and preferential trade The role of multinationals is explored and the importance of cross border service links among component activities is examined Overall extension of the principle of comparative advantage beyond products to the realm of parts and components is welfare enhancing Industries take advantage of offshore sourcing in order to reduce costs and increase competitiveness Component specialization offers new and additional opportunities for the exploitation of scale economies Across a broad range of conditions it raises output and employment Its effects on wages are spelled out Trade between advanced high wage and developing low wage countries is an obvious candidate for the two way application of component specialization The empirical part of the volume presents an evaluation of new data which allow the separation of trade in components and in final products It also provides assessments of the role of component specialization in the trade of several countries and regions In addition to their relevance for trade theorists and country specialists the studies collected in this volume have interesting implications for the conduct of trade policy They contradict claims that trade with low wage countries must be welfare reducing and they suggest new approaches to industrialization and economic development
