Rookery A Building From The Chicago Architecture Foundation:

The Rookery Jay Pridmore, 2003 Newly restored in 1992 the Rookery is one of Chicago's most popular architectural attractions. The building's history of restorations including an update by Frank Lloyd Wright in 1905 is reviewed in this short picture book. Some of the building's famous highlights include an elaborate oriel stair. The Chicago School of Architecture Rolf Achilles, 2013-06-10 The birth of the skyscraper in Chicago in the mid 1880s introduced a new direction for city architecture upwards. But how and why was it that Chicago set the standard for high rise buildings not only across the USA but all over the world? Rolf Achilles here introduces the style of the First Chicago School from 1880 to 1910 explaining the innovative use of iron frames for strength, height and openness and the ubiquity of gridded window arrangements. With reference to such famous architects as William Le Baron Jenny and Frank Lloyd Wright and colorful pictures of among many others the Reliance, Brooks and Marquette buildings, this book is a fascinating exploration of the structures that helped to give Chicago its identity and the world a new way of building.

Victorian Visions of Suburban Utopia Nathaniel Robert Walker, 2020-11-17 The rise of suburbs and disinvestment from cities have been defining features of life in many countries over the course of the twentieth century. In Victorian Visions of Suburban Utopia Nathaniel Walker asks why did we abandon our dense, complex urban places and seek to find the best of the city and the country in the flowery suburbs? While looking back at the architecture and urban design of the 1800s offers some answers, Walker argues that a great missing piece of the story can be found in Victorian utopian literature. The replacement of cities with high tech suburbs was repeatedly imagined and breathlessly described in the socialist dreams and science fiction fantasies of dozens of British and American authors. Some of these visionaries such as Robert Owen, Edward Bulwer Lytton, Edward Bellamy, William Morris, Ebenezer Howard and H.G. Wells are enduringly famous, while others were street vendors or amateur chemists who have been all but forgotten. Together they fashioned strange and beautiful imaginary worlds built of synthetic gemstones, lacy metal colonnades and unbreakable glass, staffed by robotic servants and teeming with flying carriages. As varied as their futuristic visions could be, Walker reveals how most of them were unified by a single desperate plea for humanity to have a future worth living: we must abandon our smoky, poor, chaotic Babylonian cities for a life in shimmering gardens.
