Who Writes Arab History? Joseph A. Kéchichian, 2016-09-01 At a time of profound regional and international transformations that extend beyond the political Middle Easterners in general and Arabs in particular ponder their future as well as how to best preserve and protect their interests and equally important their cultures As non Arabs interpret and opine about Arab civilization far more than indigenous thinkers how can we understand what motivates scholars and opinion makers and how can Arab analysts highlight indigenous perspectives What are the core factors that separate non Arab scholars from their Arab counterparts Can the perceptions of nearly 500 million individuals be mislabeled so frequently and so easily and what ought to be done to repair the damage already done Do Arab thinkers bear any responsibility for what may appear to be little more than a campaign to denigrate To answer these questions this paper first offers an overview of the dilemmas involved then identifies and analyses two major concerns censorship and translation matters and finally focuses on the case of the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia to test the assertion that books authored by non Arabs many of whom shroud themselves in the cloak of authority but in reality harbor a sharp dislike if not outright hatred of Arabs dominate over works written by Arabs The paper closes with a few recommendations that call on Arab thinkers to overcome existing academic as well as journalistic prejudices

Terrorist Groups and the New Tribalism Jeffrey Kaplan, 2010-02-25 The central focus of this book is a small but vitally important group of movements that constitute a distinct fifth wave of modern terrorism here called the New Tribalism. Terrorist Groups and the New Tribalism examines a collection of terrorist or insurgent movements whose similarity in tactics, strategic vision and desire to radically reshape their worlds to conform with a Golden Age dream of perfection which is to be achieved through a genocidal or ethnic cleansing process to make way for the emergence of a new radically perfected tribal utopia in a single generation. These shared strategic and tactical factors allow them to be examined through a comparative lens as a distinct fifth wave of modern terrorism. Structured around the theoretical framework of David Rapoport's Four Waves thesis, the book examines anomalous movements that began within a distinct wave of international terrorism but following a crisis model has turned inwards toward radical localism, tribalism and xenophobia. The text is divided between theory and in depth case studies of the Ugandan Lord's Resistance Army and the Sudanese Janjaweed. It concludes with a design for further field work based research. This book will be of interest to students of Terrorism and Political Violence, Genocide, Conflict Studies, African politics and Political Science in general. Jeffrey Kaplan is an Associate Professor of Religion and the Director of the Institute for the Study of Religion, Violence and Memory at the University of Wisconsin Oshkosh. He is the author of 11 books on terrorism and political violence.

The Encyclopedia of Middle East Wars Spencer C. Tucker, 2010-10-08 This in depth study of U.S. involvement in the modern Middle East carefully weighs the interplay of domestic, cultural, religious, diplomatic, international and military events in one of the world's most troubled regions. The monumental five volume The Encyclopedia of Middle East Wars: The United States in the Persian Gulf, Afghanistan and Iraq Conflicts is a must have resource for anyone seeking to comprehend U.S. actions in this volatile region. Under the expert editorship of Spencer C. Tucker, the encyclopedia traces 20th and 21st century U.S. involvement in the Middle East and south central Asia, concentrating on the last three decades. Beginning with the 1980-1988 Iran-Iraq War, it covers the 1979-1989 Soviet occupation of Afghanistan, the 1991 Persian Gulf War, allied punitive actions against Iraq during the 1990s, the Afghanistan War, the Iraq War and the Global War on Terror. Many smaller military actions against Iran, Iraq, Libya, Afghanistan and other regimes that have been involved in international terrorism are also included. Diplomacy, religion as it pertains to Middle East conflict and social/cultural developments are other key subjects of analysis, as is the interplay of politics with military policy in the United States and other nations involved in the region.

Plan C Pat Murphy, 2008-06-01 A sustainability expert goes beyond renewables calling on us to combat the climate crisis with a new low energy way of life. Concerns over climate change and energy depletion are increasing exponentially. Mainstream solutions still assume that some miracle will cure our climate ills without requiring us to change our energy intensive lifestyle. But switching from fossil fuels to renewable energy sources isn't enough. We need a Plan C. In response to the converging crises of Peak Oil, climate change, and increasing inequity, sustainability expert Pat Murphy offers an inspiring vision of community and curtailment. Where cooperation replaces competition, we can deliberately reduce consumption of consumer goods. Plan C shows how each person's individual choices can dramatically reduce CO2 emissions, offering specific strategies in the areas of food, transportation, and housing.

Global Political Economy and New World Disorder Sean Creaven, 2025-04-24

Drawing upon a range of resources of critique including critical realist social theory, realist international relations theory, the sociology of globalization, the Marxist critique of imperialism, and dependency theory, this book is an essential contribution to the critical understanding of nationalism and imperialism in the global age. It conducts a sustained and in-depth analysis of the relations between the asymmetry in the distribution of economic resources and powers of command and the recent play of political events involving imperialist wars, including the Russo-Ukrainian and Israeli-Hamas wars. Crucially, the author argues that establishing these connections requires theorizing political economy in the so-called global age as comprised of neoimperial and neoliberal orders. As such, the book offers a new interpretation of the relations between neoliberalism and neoimperialism and between modes of organizing social relations and resulting global disorders and instabilities. This will therefore be of interest to researchers, scholars, and students working at the intersection of global political economy, international relations, and the sociology of globalization.

Thicker Than Oil Rachel Bronson, 2008-06-05

For fifty-five years, the United States and Saudi Arabia were solid partners. Then came the 9/11 attacks, which sorely tested that relationship. In Thicker than Oil, Rachel Bronson reveals why the partnership became so intimate and how the countries' shared interests sowed the seeds of today's most pressing problem: Islamic radicalism. Drawing on a wide range of archival material, declassified documents, and interviews with leading Saudi and American officials, and including many colorful stories of diplomatic adventures and misadventures, Bronson chronicles a history of close and always controversial contacts. She argues that, contrary to popular belief, the relationship was never simply about oil for security. Saudi Arabia's geographic location and religiously motivated foreign policy figured prominently in American efforts to defeat godless communism. From Africa to Afghanistan, Egypt to Nicaragua, the two worked to beat back Soviet expansion. But decisions made for hardheaded Cold War purposes left behind a legacy that today enflames the Middle East. Looking forward, Bronson outlines the challenges confronting the relationship. The Saudi government faces a zealous internal opposition bent on America's and Saudi Arabia's destruction. Yet from the perspective of both countries, the status quo is clearly unsustainable.

Legal and Political

Reforms in Saudi Arabia Joseph A. Kechichian, 2013

The fractious relationship between the United States and Saudi Arabia has long been a central concern in Washington. In the aftermath of 9/11 and amongst ongoing wars, the United States confronts an acute dilemma: how to cooperate with Riyadh against terrorism whilst confronting acute anti-Americanism. Using information gathered from extensive interviews with a plethora of officials, this book aims to analyze Saudi domestic reforms

It addresses the significant deficiency of information on such diverse matters as the judiciary and ongoing national dialogues but also provides an alternative understanding of what motivates Saudi policy makers How these reforms may impact on future Saudi decision making will surely generate a slew of policy concerns for the United States and this study offers a few clarifications and solutions This book will be of interest to anyone seeking a new perspective on the motivation behind legal and political reforms in Saudi Arabia and the effects of these reforms beyond the Middle East

Modernity and the Pandemic Sean Creaven, 2023-12-01 Modernity and the Pandemic Decivilization Imperialism and COVID 19 applies the tools of critical social theory to make sense of the COVID 19 crisis and presents a critical sociological analysis of aspects of the political and community response to the pandemic The book focuses on key themes integral to a sociology of pandemics in the global age Firstly Creaven argues that cultures of individualism and consumerism and of pervasive and deeply entrenched social inequalities that is decivilization significantly weaken the cause of public health by weakening the compliance of people with state mandated non pharmaceutical interventions including and especially physical distancing rules and encouraging vaccine hesitancy Secondly Creaven examines how interstate competition and imperial politics have undermined an effective global policy response to the COVID 19 pandemic Policy failure with regard to the management of the pandemic is interpreted as being rooted in the dominance of neoliberal ideology and governance in the politics of international relations particularly in the politics of the leading state actors by protecting corporate interests at the expense of public health and in the constraints imposed on state actors by the competitive dynamic of multinational capitalism in the global age Modernity and the Pandemic will appeal to scholars in the humanities and social sciences with interests in neoliberalism and its social cultural and epidemiological impacts

Making a Killing Ian Michael Oxnevad, 2021-10-15 The international financial system is not only economic but political Making a Killing explores the often overlooked world of terrorist financing and the involvement of the international banking system In order to address the threat of terrorist organizations in a post 9 11 world and how they are funded and financed in particular the international community has constructed a vast architecture of counterterrorist finance laws policies and institutions Connecting the fields of security studies political economy and finance Ian Oxnevad argues that a bank's institutional link to a state as a state owned bank or a bank with strong state connections will protect it from any enforcement action for violations of anti money laundering and counter terrorism financing regulations In the face of states blocking such enforcement actions these regulations prove ineffective in preventing the financing of terrorism as the state's self interest supersedes its interest in preventing terrorist financing Making a Killing seeks to assess how effective new laws and regulations have been as well as to identify best practices for future attempts to counter the financing of terrorism
