Markets William A. Jackson, 2019-04-18 Defining markets has never been an easy task Despite their importance for economic theory and practice they are hard to pin down as a concept and economists have tended to adopt simplified axiomatic models or rely on piecemeal case studies This book argues that an extended range of theory social as well as economic can provide a better foundation for the portrayal of markets The book first looks at the definition of markets their inadequate treatment in orthodox economic theory and their historical background in the pre capitalist and capitalist eras It then assesses various alternatives to orthodox theory categorised as social cultural structural functional and ethical approaches Among the alternatives considered are institutionalist accounts Marxian views network models performativity arguments field theories Austrian views and ethical notions of fair trade A key finding of the book is that these diverse approaches valuable as they are could present a more effective challenge to orthodoxy if they were less disparate Possibilities are investigated for a more unified theoretical alternative to orthodoxy Unlike most studies of markets this book adopts a fully interdisciplinary viewpoint expressed in accessible non technical language Ideas are brought together from heterodox economics social theory critical realism as well as other social sciences such as sociology anthropology and geography Anybody seeking a broad critical survey of the theoretical analysis of markets will find this book useful and it will be of great interest to economists social scientists students and policy makers

The Political Economy of Investment in Syria Linda Matar, 2016-02-26 Linda Matar examines Syria's failure to promote employment generating investment prior to the uprising Tackling the thorny issue of the inapplicability of modern investment theory to a developing country she situates the analysis of investment in Syria in its historical context and examines the socioeconomic structure and political preconditions that set the course of capital accumulation Matar argues that the class in charge of development which oversaw the allocation of resources during the Hafiz and Bashar Assad regimes precipitated a crisis of capital accumulation Difficult to access data and information compiled from fieldwork reveal how neoliberal reforms failed to build productive capacity and instead enriched a few through short term speculative and mercantile ventures Productive investment in Syria prior to the uprising lurched downward and the key related socio economic variables followed These deteriorating conditions contributed to the social explosion in 2011 Exploring the poor quality and quantity of investment this study probes how the cant of the free market served as a veneer behind which the institutional decisions distorted income distribution in a way that would inevitably lead to collapse

Capitalist Development in India's Informal Economy Elisabetta Basile, 2013-06-07 This book explores the economy and society of Provincial India in the post Green Revolution period It argues that the low quality of capital development in India's villages and small towns is the joint outcome of the informal economic organisation that is strongly biased in favour of capital and of the complex stratification of the workforce along class and caste lines Focusing on the processes of growth induced by the introduction of the high yield varieties in agriculture the book demonstrates that a low road pattern of capitalist development has been emerging in provincial India firms compete over price and not over efficiency with a constant pressure to reduce costs in particular labour costs The book shows that low skilled employment prevails and low wages and poor working conditions are widespread Based on original empirical research the book makes a valuable contribution to the debate on varieties of capitalism in particular of the Global South It is of interest to academics working in the fields of Development Studies Political Economy and South Asian Studies
