Pagan Gold:

Pagan Gold Margaret Rome,1985      The Art of Precolumbian Gold Jan Mitchell,1985      Manalive G. K. Chesterton,2019-02-05 Manalive concerns Innocent Smith a mysterious man who arrives as the new tenant at Beacon House a London boarding establishment This man is accompanied by a great wind and he breathes new life into the household with his games and antics During his first day in residence the eccentric Smith creates the High Court of Beacon and helps several other tenants to accomplish some great deeds However when the household is at its happiest two doctors appear with awful news Smith is wanted on charges of burglary desertion of a spouse polygamy and attempted murder Before Smith can be taken to a jail or an asylum one of the tenants declares that the case falls under the purview of the High Court of Beacon and suggests that the household investigate the matter before involving the authorities or the press Although things do not look good for Smith evidence presented to the court will throw a new light on his convictions      Manalive Гилберт Кит Честертон,2021-03-16      Looting or Missioning Egil Mikkelsen,2019-09-15 Until now insular and continental material mostly metal work found in pagan Viking Age graves in Norway has been interpreted as looted material from churches and monasteries on the British Isles and the Continent The raiding Vikings brought these objects back to their homeland where they were often broken up and used as jewellery or got alternative functions Looting or Missioning looks at the use and functions of these sacred objects in their original Christian contexts Based on such an analysis the author proposes an alternative interpretation of these objects they were brought by Christian missionaries from different parts of the British Isles and the Continent to Norway The objects were either personal crosses croziers portable reliquaries etc objects used for baptism hanging bowls equipment to officiate a mass mountings from books or reading equipment altars or crosses or to give the communion pitchers glass vessels chalices paten We know from contemporary sources Ansgar in Birka Sweden in the ninth century that missionaries brought this sort of equipment on their mission journeys We also hear that missionaries were robbed killed or chased off Mikkelsen interprets the sacred objects found in Viking Age pagan graves as objects that originate from the many unsuccessful mission attempts in Norway throughout the Viking Age They changed function and were integrated in the pagan tradition The conversion and Christianisation of Norway can thus be seen as a long lasting process at least from about 800 but probably earlier to the beginning of the eleventh century As we must assume that the written sources on the subject are incomplete the archaeological evidences are the main source In addition to metal work and written sources the dating and interpretation of stone crosses rune stones manuscript fragments and early Christian graves and churches are discussed The main part of the manuscript regards the context of all these sources studied in each part of Norway separately Where do we find concentrations of objects that could support the interpretation of these being the result of mission attempts and where can we combine archaeological and written sources to tentatively create more complete stories related to mission One analysis is of special interest to British and Norwegian scholars and even a broader audience It refers to the chieftain Ohthere from Northern Norway who visited King Alfred the Great in Winchester in 890 The author finds a link between Alfred's court and Ohthere's farm which it is argued for was Borg at Vestvågøy Lofoten where the biggest Viking Age house in Northern Europe has been excavated In the hall of this house were found a rare glass beaker with gold cross decorations a Continental or British made pitcher pieces of a bronze bowl and an stel of gold This last piece is only found in Northern Norway and in England with Wessex and Mercia as the core areas The Alfred Jewel Ashmolean Museum is also an stel of the same main type but much more splendid and with an inscription relating it to King Alfred Mikkelsen argues for a bishop being sent from Wessex and Alfred's court on Ohthere's ship back to Northern Norway as a missionary

Chain of Gold Susan C. Jarratt, 2019-11-08 Barred from political engagement and legal advocacy the second sophists composed and performed epideictic works for audiences across the Mediterranean world during the early centuries of the Common Era In a wide ranging study author Susan C Jarratt argues that these artfully wrought discourses formerly considered vacuous entertainments constitute intricate negotiations with the absolute power of the Roman Empire Positioning culturally Greek but geographically diverse sophists as colonial subjects Jarratt offers readings that highlight ancient debates over free speech and figured discourse revealing the subtly coded commentary on Roman authority and governance embedded in these works Through allusions to classical Greek literature sophists such as Dio Chrysostom Aelius Aristides and Philostratus slipped oblique challenges to empire into otherwise innocuous works Such figures protected their creators from the danger of direct confrontation but nonetheless would have been recognized by elite audiences Roman and Greek alike by virtue of their common education Focusing on such moments Jarratt presents close readings of city encomia biography and texts in hybrid genres from key second sophistic figures setting each in its geographical context Although all the authors considered are male the analyses here bring to light reflections on gender ethnicity skin color language differences and sexuality revealing an underrecognized diversity in the rhetorical activity of this period While US scholars of ancient rhetoric have focused largely on the pedagogical Jarratt brings a geopolitical lens to her study of the subject Her inclusion of fourth century texts the Greek novel Ethiopian Story by Heliodorus and the political orations of Libanius of Antioch extends the temporal boundary of the period She concludes with speculations about the pressures brought to bear on sophistic political subjectivity by the rise of Christianity and with ruminations on a third sophistic in ancient and contemporary eras of empire

Hell's Angels Yves Lavigne, 1993 Not since Hunter Thompson's seminal Hells Angels A Strange Terrible Saga of the Outlaw Motorcycle Gangs in 1967 has there been such a thorough account of the Angels This book documents the gang's bumpy ride from its origins as a Stateside club for WWII fighter pilots to its freewheeling terror tactics of the early sixties to its absurd flirtation with the hippie scene to its current status as one of the most powerful underground organisations in North America rivalling even the Mafia
